Farmers Union opposes milk checkoff

BY CURT HARLER

LANCASTER — Members of Lancaster Farmers Union voted Thursday night to oppose the upcoming Pennsylvania milk promotion referendum

After vigorous debate they agreed to support the voluntary ag preserve district concept, and unanimously said they continue to recommend all farm products and items be priced at no less than 100 percent of parity.

Members said they are against the Pennsylvania milk promotion referendum which state dairymen will vote on in January. If passed it would become effective July 1, 1981 The checkoff would require a three-quarters of one percent checkoff for milk promotion and research from all dairymen There would be no ask-out provision

Farmers Union, the only major farmer organization to oppose the Beef Checkoff proposal earlier this year, is hoping to generate momentum against the checkoff program Farmers in Pennsylvania turned down the beef checkoff with only 10 percent voting for it

Farmers Union pointed out the milk referendum will require only a simple majority to pass rather than a two-thirds vote of producers Unless a farmer votes, the co-op or dairy serving the farm will be able to block vote using all members' uncast votes as it sees fit

Farmers Union said the state secretary of agriculture has ultimate control of the promotion fund which may amount to over $9 million per year, rather than farmers. There will be an advisory committee appointed by farm groups and co-ops

The checkoff will cost farmers between nine and ten cents per hundredweight on $13 milk at the three-fourths percent rate But the current proposal allows for the program to be increased as high as one percent, or 13 cents per cwt on the same milk So, it will average farmers $1 a day for promotion

In other action the group voted to support the Lancaster County voluntary ag preserve district concept, with the necessary amendments to Act 442, as a means of preserving ag land.

The proposal they supported basically is Amos Funk's ag district idea

John Barley, Master Farmer

The farmer doesn't mince his words That's why comments like the one above really mean something to us

And there have been many about Penn Pro Pennfield's Feed Program

Penn Pro is custom feeding It's a computerized feeding program It's personal service And a whole lot more

Unlike many other feed companies, Pennfield offers individual feeding programs Because you're an individual And so are your needs

So the first Penn Pro stage starts with a Pennfield professional reviewing your total operation with you Your targets Your problems In fact everything that affects your profit potential

We then feed it into our computer for a perfectly balanced solution A solution for your farm Not one like yours With the aid of our own full-scale research laboratory And because its in-house (another facility most companies don't have) we can feed you the results fast

The Penn Pro program has been proved in the field for the last 1½ years So it's really farmer-tested and not just puffed-up theory

The Penn Pro Feed Program We don't have to tell you how good it is Farmers will

THE OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC

NOV. 24-30, 1980

The moon is hid, the night is still

Keep good fires and good company Sister Kenny died Nov 30, 1952 Last quarter of the moon Nov 29 Average length of days for the week, 9 hours, 23 minutes Happy Thanksgiving (Nov 27) Barbed wire patented Nov 24, 1874 They never taste who always arink, they always talk who never think

Ask the Old Farmer: Would you know about the origin of the expression, "the whole ball of wax"? F E, Madison, Wisc

Old bookbinders used to keep a ball of wax on their bench, and with it collect all the tiny bits of gold leaf When the ball of wax arrived at a certain weight it was sold for the gold in it and the bookbinders divided the return, unless someone made off with the whole ball

Home Hints Plants that don't appear healthy can be nourished with water which has had several empty eggshells standing in it for a day

OLD FARMER'S WEATHER FORECASTS

New England: Very cold, snow north 4" to 6" through middle of week, then clearing and milder at week's end

Greater New York-New Jersey: Cold and rainy, snow in mountains first of week, then clearing and warm rest of week and weekend

Middle Atlantic Coastal: Cloudy, cold, flurries all week, then clearing and mild for weekend

Lancaster Farming says...

The high cost of becoming a vet

In May, 103 students will be graduated from the School of Veterinary Medicine of the University of Pennsylvania.

The typical graduate in Penn's class of 1981 will be in debt $33,000 when the University confers the VMD. For this the new veterinarian will have a shelf full of books, a bag full of instruments and a mind full of facts . . . but no physical property that is producing equity.

The new vet will be about 29 years of age. Most farmers who are 29 have been in their business for 10 years. Most college graduates have begun to make a name for themselves in their fields, have started a family, are established in their communities.

Shuffle through a few old reciepts with a vet student and it's easy to see how a desire to work with animals was transformed in to tens of thousands of dollars in debt.

Penn's vet school has the highest tuition in the nation. State residents pay $6660 per year. Out-of-staters pay $7900 In addition the minimum expenditure for room and board for a Penn veterinary student is $3700 per year and those books and instruments cost about $800 annually. That comes to roughly $11,100 per year.

"They are unmanageable debts," says Robert R. Marshak, dean of the Vet School.

The first job a typical graduate gets pays between $15,000 and $18,000 a year with the average around $17,500.

"There's no way a person earning that can satisfy the debt burden," Marshak says.

One national study showed the manageable educational debt was $4739 for a single vet with no dependents and a $17,500 salary Another study put the figure at $8641 — but that's still far below the $33,000 debt load that green vet will bring to your farm along with his new boots and clean coveralls

About half of Penn's 2500 living graduates reside and practice in Pennsylvania. A number of others are in neighboring states.

Why, then, does a state with politicians who like to brag about having the nation's largest rural population, so sadly neglect such a vital part of the rural family?

Cornell, the only nearby vet school which can compete in quality with Penn's, gets 54 percent support from the state and has a tuition rate of $3832.

The University of Pennsylvania gets about 33 percent of its income from the Commonwealth.

Even Cornell's support, although sizable compared to Penn's, looks paltry next to the 66 percent support Texas A&M receives to keep its tuition at $600 a year, or the University of California, which receives a 65 percent cut from the state, and keeps its tuition at a modest $742

In the long haul, such tightfistedness by the state will discourage the better faculty and researchers from remaining in Pennsylvania That may mean less or poorer research done for state farmers, and young vets being graduated who aren't up to the school's current high standards.

Penn recently escaped alive from a budget battle to keep its nickle and dime appropriation

Rather than worrying the school about funding, the state should take measures to help Penn's Vet School budget. An increase would relieve the onus of being the institution with the lowest appropriation in the nation, and allow the school brain trust to worry about animals, not dollars.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ON THE DOTTED LINE

November 23, 1980

Background Scripture:
Ephesians 2; 1 Peter 2:4-10.
Devotional Reading:
Isaiah 2:1-5.

What does it mean to be a Christian?

Ask that question today and you get a variety of answers.

Some will say that being a Christian means being a member of one of the churches. Others will maintain that it means believing in Christ, although not necessarily belonging to a church. Still others will answer in terms of the beliefs to which they subscribe. And some people will maintain that being a Christian is synonymous with simply believing in God.

A CHOSEN RACE

Some people believe that a Christian is one of those elect whom God has called to be one of his children. This language comes from the Bible itself has led to many theological disputes. Why does God "elect" some and not others? Why would he "elect" his children before they were born, as some maintain. Wouldn't that be terribly unfair to the rest of us?

This is a hard question to resolve because the language of the Bible is not always easy to understand. Nevertheless, I believe that our problems is not one of God's exclusive and caparicious love for some of us, but the semantics, the terminology which we use to describe that love. For example, the Jews thought of themselves as God's chosen people. All others were in another class altogether. A Gentile was something to be despised and avoided.

Yet, early Christianity attempted to show the world that all people everywhere were called by God, all were invited to participate in the convenant, to come into the kingdom - not just the Jews. The writer of the Epistle to the Ephesians says to the Gentiles: "So then you are no longer strangers and sojourners, but you are fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God..." (Ephesians 2:19,20). It appears that God chooses or elects all of us to be his chosen people, but not all of us accept that invitation. All of us can belong, choose to do so.

THAT YOU MAY DECLARE

But belonging to God as one of his chosen people is not a matter of having our names on a membership roll, nor is it even of knowing whose side we're on if it comes to declaring ourselves. God wants something more of us than merely knowing that we believe in him and identify ourselves in some way with him. Being a Christian is not to be just one of a number of affiliations that appear on our obituary. Listen to what he expects of us:

But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, God's own people, that you may declare the wonderful deeds of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light.

What God really wants from us is a convenantal relationship, a commitment to be what he wants us to be. A nodding acquaintanceship is not enough. What he requires is our lives on the dotted line.

NOW IS THE TIME

TO SPREAD LIVESTOCK WASTE

On most farms there are only a few months during the year that manure can be applied to the ground. During the winter the ground is usually frozen, covered with snow, or too soft for heavy equipment. During the growing season, there are very few fields on which a crop is not being grown. At this time of the year, we are in between these situations; and, a good time to empty the barns, pits, and feedlots. In addition, most non-farm folks will not be outside as much this time of the year, and the odors will not be as noticeable. Soil injection of the liquid manures is strongly suggested; or, the spreading of manure on sod or corn stalk fields. Open ground, that is sloping and near public streams, could create problems with water pollution possibilities.

TO PROVIDE EXERCISE

Most species of animals should be given daily exercise during the winter months. This includes the dairy herd, as well as, horses and sheep. In the case of horses, it is best if they are ridden daily or given some type of exercise outside of their stall or pen. Dairy cows will be more healthy and will be better on their feet and legs if given a chance to be out every day. Young stock, by all means, should be allowed to run in and out at all times. Sheep will do much better and the ewes will produce stronger lambs, if permitted daily outside exercise. Don't confine these animals tightly.

TO REPAIR MACHINERY DURING THE WINTER

Most of the outside field work is done for this year. Do you have any machinery that needs repairing or servicing? If you're going to get this done at your dealer, or service place, it might be wise to get it to him in the near future I'm aware of the spring rush next March and April; and, I'm sure your local service man will appreciate getting some work to do late this fall or during the long winter days In some cases, the charges might be reduced because of getting the work done during the off season. The objective is to be planning for this repair work, now. Have it done when you want to use the machinery early next spring

TO BEWARE OF WILD BIRDS

No doubt most livestock producers have faced the problem of wild birds during snow cover days These birds come by the thousands and feed from the livestock bunks and feeders. They not only eat feed but their droppings present very unsanitary conditions for everyone. Also, since these birds may fly from farm to farm, they are a definite source of spreading various diseases. Unfortunately, we do not have a real good cure for the problem. They can be screened out of confinement buildings. Some special pelleted feed is available but gets expensive. To the producers with the outside bunks, we are still looking for a good method to keep them out or to eradicate the threat.

Young Farmer attends AAW convention

BY JOYCE BUPP
Staff Correspondent

HERSHEY — Chester County farm wife Joyce Hershey was one of four agriculture spokesmen participating in a simulated television talk show, held last Thursday in the wrap-up session of American Agri-Women's annual meeting at the convention center.

Moderator for the media formal was nationally-known ag spokeswoman Laura Heuser, a Michigan apple grower and one of the founders of AAW. Firing questions designed to put the panelists "on the spot" on agriculture issues, Laura quizzed the women on such controversial issues as land use, erosion and tillage practices, migrant labor regulations and support prices.

Following the "interview" with each panelist, their responses were critiques by Ann Herr of Lancaster's WGAL-TV and Ann Kaiser, editor of FARM WIFE NEWS.

Other panelists were Julia Hinther, president of Oklahoma Women for Agriculture; Jewel Home, president of Women of National Agriculture Aviation Association; and Jean Ibendahl, president of Illinois Women for Agriculture.

In February, Joyce Hershey was chosen the Pennsylvania Young Farmer spokesman, during competition held at the Young Farmer state meeting in Gettysburg. She represented the Octorara chapter of the Young Farmers, and was the only woman in the four-contestant runoff.

On December 6, Joyce will take part in the national spokesman finals, scheduled during the National Young Farmer Educational Institute being held in Omaha, Nebraska Elanco Products is sponsoring the public relations competition, with 22 contestants entered from across the nation.

Spokesmen will first present a five-minute speech and then be questioned for ten minutes on a variety of agriculture issues. All the contestants will take part in public relations promotional events during the Omaha convention and three top winners will be sent on a media blitz through Cleveland, Chicago and Houston.

Joyce and her husband Art have been dairying for 21 years, the last fifteen on their Cochranton R1 home farm. They have 100 head of registered Holsteins, with about 60 in the milking string, and crop 400 acres in hay, corn, and pastureland. Also in the pork production business, the Hershey's fatten between 1500 to 1800 hogs annually.

Oldest son, Dwayne, is 19 and helps to run the farming operation. Brad is 17 and a senior at Octorara High School, where he's active in the wrestling and cross country teams. Ten year old Julie is a 4-H'er with a dairy heifer and helps on the farm with the calf feeding chores. Bev is the oldest, married to Barry Goodling, and attending Messiah College at Grantham studying home economics.

Critiques to the answers of farm women on controversial ag issue questions were offered by WGAL-TV's Ann Herr, left, and Ann Kaiser of Farm Wife News.

"I prefer to be called a 'farm wife'," emphasizes Joyce, "and I personally don't want to compete for the title of 'farmer'." The job of farm wife should be recognized as a vocation, a vitally needed part of the farm contributing to the well-being of the farm family.

Joyce is head bookkeeper for the farming operation, and labels herself "at the bottom of the totempole" when it comes to being tapped for help on farm chores.

Since being selected the state's Young Farmer spokesman, Joyce has spoked to both Penn's Agri-Women and the Chester County Farmers Association's ladies' day out.

A past chairman and current member of the county farmers' association's women's committee, Joyce is also active in community affairs She serves on the West Fallowfield Township recreation commission, a group working toward establishing recreation facilities through an old school facility they've purchased. She's an adult at the Plaza Mall on Saturday.

Farm City Week

Starting Monday, the farm and industry tours allowed senior citizens and about 130 farmers and industry people to take a look at the other side's way of life.

Farmers toured the Bethlehem Steel Corporation's Lebanon plant and Butler Manufacturing, Annville. And industry toured several of the county's top-notch farms.

A job exchange created the banquet's entertainment as three farmers and three city businessmen shared their eye-opening and sometimes humorous experiences.

One of the exchanges found dairy farmer Donald Bollinger filling in as president of Lebanon Valley National Bank for a day.

Said Bollinger, "The question I got most was 'Did I get any free samples?'. Sure, I got two pens, two bottle caps, and two balloons."

Bollinger told the attentive crowd how he followed the path a check travels from the time it is handed to a bank teller until it leaves the bank. He said he was amazed at a machine called the reader-sorter, designed to scan checks and sort them according to number codes found on each check

"The amazing thing is that this machine can read 1600 documents a minute," he exclaimed.

"I also learned why interest rates at banks are so high. You see, inflation increases the dollar assets of property, but a bank's assets are, for the most part, strictly dollar bills.

"Unfortunately, inflation decreases the value of the dollar every day. So banks have to increase their interest rates to offset their losses due to inflation," Bollinger explained.

"Now, when I write a check to cover my farm loan payments — it's still painful — but I know why it hurts."

Other job swap experience stories begin on page A-20.

Commending Lebanon County on their successful Farm City Week was C. Eugene Wingert, Region 6 Director of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Dave Wauls, executive director of the Lebanon Chamber of Commerce summed up the event saying, "We will continue to work with the business and farming community to make it better through efforts like our first Farm City Week."

Who won the showdown between Pioneer, Funks, DeKalb and Jacques?

Showdowns aren't just at the OK Corral. This one took place at 517 locations throughout the corn belt. Look what happened!

Haven't you always wanted to see how the major hybrid corn varieties compared?

That's what Jacques has done again this fall in 517 locations all across the corn belt.

Major competitive varieties were planted alongside Jacques varieties and harvested for the whole world to see.

What's even more important all the results are published whether we won or lost. Who else runs corn trials where they put their hybrids up against the strongest competitors and then tell when they lose?

But isn't that what you need for a true test of hybrids?

Look at the way farmers run our plots? They plant field length rows, they combine just like you do, corn is weighed and moisture tested as neighbors and competitive seed dealers watch. So you know the results have to be right.

What happened in the tests? The chart at the right tells the story. They show how well Jacques varieties did against Pioneer, Funks and DeKalb. All the results aren't in yet but when they are we'll show you who won and lost in the showdown for your area.

What better information can you use in evaluating this past tough year? What better way can you find the ideas on the hybrids you need to consider adding for next year?

So here are the first shots in the showdown. In a few more weeks all the results will be in and our new 1980 Yieldbook will be ready. See your Jacques Dealer for a copy or send in the coupon and we'll mail you a free copy. Do it right away.

ABOUT HYBRED PORK

HYBRED PORK INCORP. MEMBERS WELCOME YOU TO THEIR OPEN HOUSE TO SEE THE LATEST AND MOST MODERN DESIGN IN PORK PRODUCTION HOUSING AND EQUIPMENT.

Hybred Pork Inc. is a 500 sow farrowing unit and will be managed by Dr. Tim Trayer D.V.M., Deb Trayer his wife, will assist Tim with farrowing and record keeping. Dr. Trayer originates from Hershey, Pa. and graduated from Ohio State University Veterinarian College in 1979. Tim was employed until November 1 by Valley Animal Hospital in Palmyra and worked with large and small animals. Tim is looking forward to managing his first large hog complex.

Deb originates from Wilmington, Ohio and graduated in 1973 from Wilmington College. Deb has worked on her father's hog complex and also taught 1st grade in a Columbus, Ohio school. Tim will also be hiring some part-time workers to help over weekends and clean up.

When the complex is populated with gilts and boars, all personnel entering beyond the waiting room must leave their clothes, shower in, and wear clothes provided by Hybred Pork Inc. The clothing supplied by Hybred will be washed and dried there and will never leave the building. The above procedures are all part of a minimal disease program to prevent any disease outbreak.

The breeding stock will be supplied by Dekalb Swine Breeders Inc. of Dekalb, Illinois. Dekalb Swine Breeders will have a management service contract with Hybred Pork Inc. in which they will supply a serviceman to check the unit about once a month. John Beck is Dekalb's area salesman, Randy George and Bill Herbman are Dekalb's servicemen. Randy and Bill have both managed a Dekalb 1100 head sow complex for over a year before becoming servicemen.

The Dekalb gilts and boars will be moved into a gestation room and breeding will begin in December. The gestation room consists of Fristamat Ventilation and a narrow gutter pull plug manure system. The gestation sows and gilts will be individually fed with an automatic system designed by Chore-Time. The boars will be held in the breeding pens and moved to heat check pens which have a 2½' wide pull plug gutter covered with breeding wire.

After gestation the gilts will be moved to one of four farrowing rooms. Each room is ventilated with its own Fristamat recycling ventilation system. Fristamat allows for a large heat savings because of recirculating a portion of the air.

The baby pigs have an energy efficient S.B.M. brooder in the creep area which is a radiant type heat. The farrowing crate and creep area is on a raised woven wire deck.

The manure handling is a Farmer Boy Ag pull plug lip system. The lip system retains 3" of water in the front 2/3's of the shallow pit under the crate. The water is retained so that feed spillage or manure can be hi pressure cleaned to the back 1/3 deeper pull plug pit.

The baby pigs will be weaned at age 3 weeks and moved to one of six nursery rooms which consist of 12 pens 4'x8'. The nursery decks which are all galvanized and total woven wire are fed automatically with a Chore-Time auger and bin system. Each nursery room is ventilated by a heat saving Fristamat ventilator and the room is heated by an L.B. White Heater.

When the pigs reach 8 to 9 weeks of age they will be shipped to one of the three corporation members who is contracted to supply care, labor, building, and electric for the hog until they are 230 lbs.

The fat hog will be trucked to Hatfield Meats by Ezra Good Trucking. The hogs will be sold on a grade and yield basis, which for a good quality hog, results in an extra bonus.

Hollinger Farm and Home Supply will be feeding a Master Mix Feed to gestation through finishing hogs.

The building was constructed by Agri-Inc.

The equipment was designed and installed by Farmer Boy Ag of Myerstown. Leon Hoover, owner of Farmer Boy Ag has designed the complex with energy conservation in mind. The complete ventilation system consists of only 16 Fristamat ventilators. The manure handling system has no mechanical moving parts, except a pump in the holding pit outside the building.

The manure is pumped into the bottom of an earthen lagoon to keep down odors, also a straw cover in the lagoon will increase the nitrogen value of the manure.

The corporation members have kept in mind that at a future time a methane gas system can be adapted.

Haller Electric from Denver has done all the electrical work and Leonard Martin Generator Company will supply back up generators.

The corporation is pleased with the workmanship of all the contractors involved and extend a personal invitation for anyone to tour the complex on November 28, 1980.

Century Farm award winner

Brossmans farm near Fivepointville since 1832

FIVEPOINTVILLE — William B. and Fern Furlow Brossman are the proud owners of a 103-acre Lancaster County farm that this week received the designation of Century Farm.

According to Fern, the reason she applied for the Century Farm award was for her sons', Brian, Jan, and William F., heritage. She explained she had read about the program in an article published in a Lancaster newspaper, written by County Extension Agent Max Smith.

In order to complete the application, Fern said Brian went to the county courthouse and began researching the farm's history.

"We were able to trace the farm in the Brossman name back to 1832, but we know there were Brossmans here before that," Fern said.

According to the county records, Jacob Brossman took title to the farm on April 4, 1832. Then, on March 27, 1847, the farm passed to Jacob's son, John.

On April 3, 1869, John's son William became the owner of the Brossman farm, and he, in turn, sold it to his son John on March 14, 1884. "Grandfather John used to drive the stagecoach to Reading from the Fivepointville area," Fern recalled.

Then, on April 8, 1907, William F Brossman took title to the farm and sold it to his son, William B. on January 15, 1944 for slightly over $6000.

"Back then, my husband paid for the farm probably what it would bring per acre today," Fern exclaimed

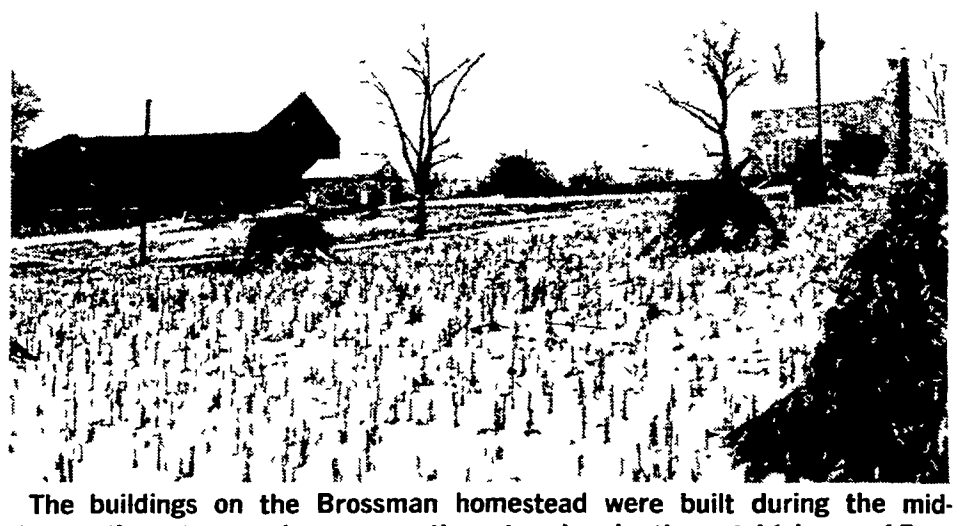
She also pointed out that in every transaction made up until the time her husband purchased the farm in January, 1944, all the land transfers were made around the first of April.

"Back in those days, everyone moved the latter part of March-beginning of April," Fern remarked. "Sometimes people were moving out on the same day someone else was moving in. It was tradition."

The history of the house on the Brossman property is not documented, but Fern said she believes it is at least as old as the barn, built in 1849.

"The house, built out of log, was erected in stages," she said. The wide-plank hardwood floors reveal where additions were constructed onto the original two-story, two-room house.

Within the past ten years, the Brossmans undertook the enormous task of restoring the barn and house.



The buildings on the Brossman homestead were built during the mid-nineteenth century, and were recently restored under the watchful eyes of Fern Brossman.

"We started on the barn first, repointing the stones, replacing the roof, and applying a fresh coat of red paint. Then we went to work on the house, making sure we kept it as original as possible. All the old hardware is still on the doors - you know no one makes locks like those any more. And we kept all the flooring, chair rails and coat rails."

The farmland is currently being farmed by two tenant farmers. In previous years, however, the Brossmans raised corn, wheat, and tobacco.

Fern and son, William, tend and care for a small fruit orchard and plant a vegetable garden each year Fern, who was born and raised on a farm in Clay Township, said she still enjoys farming.

"It's something you can never learn by reading books," she said —SM

4-H embryology replaces mother hen

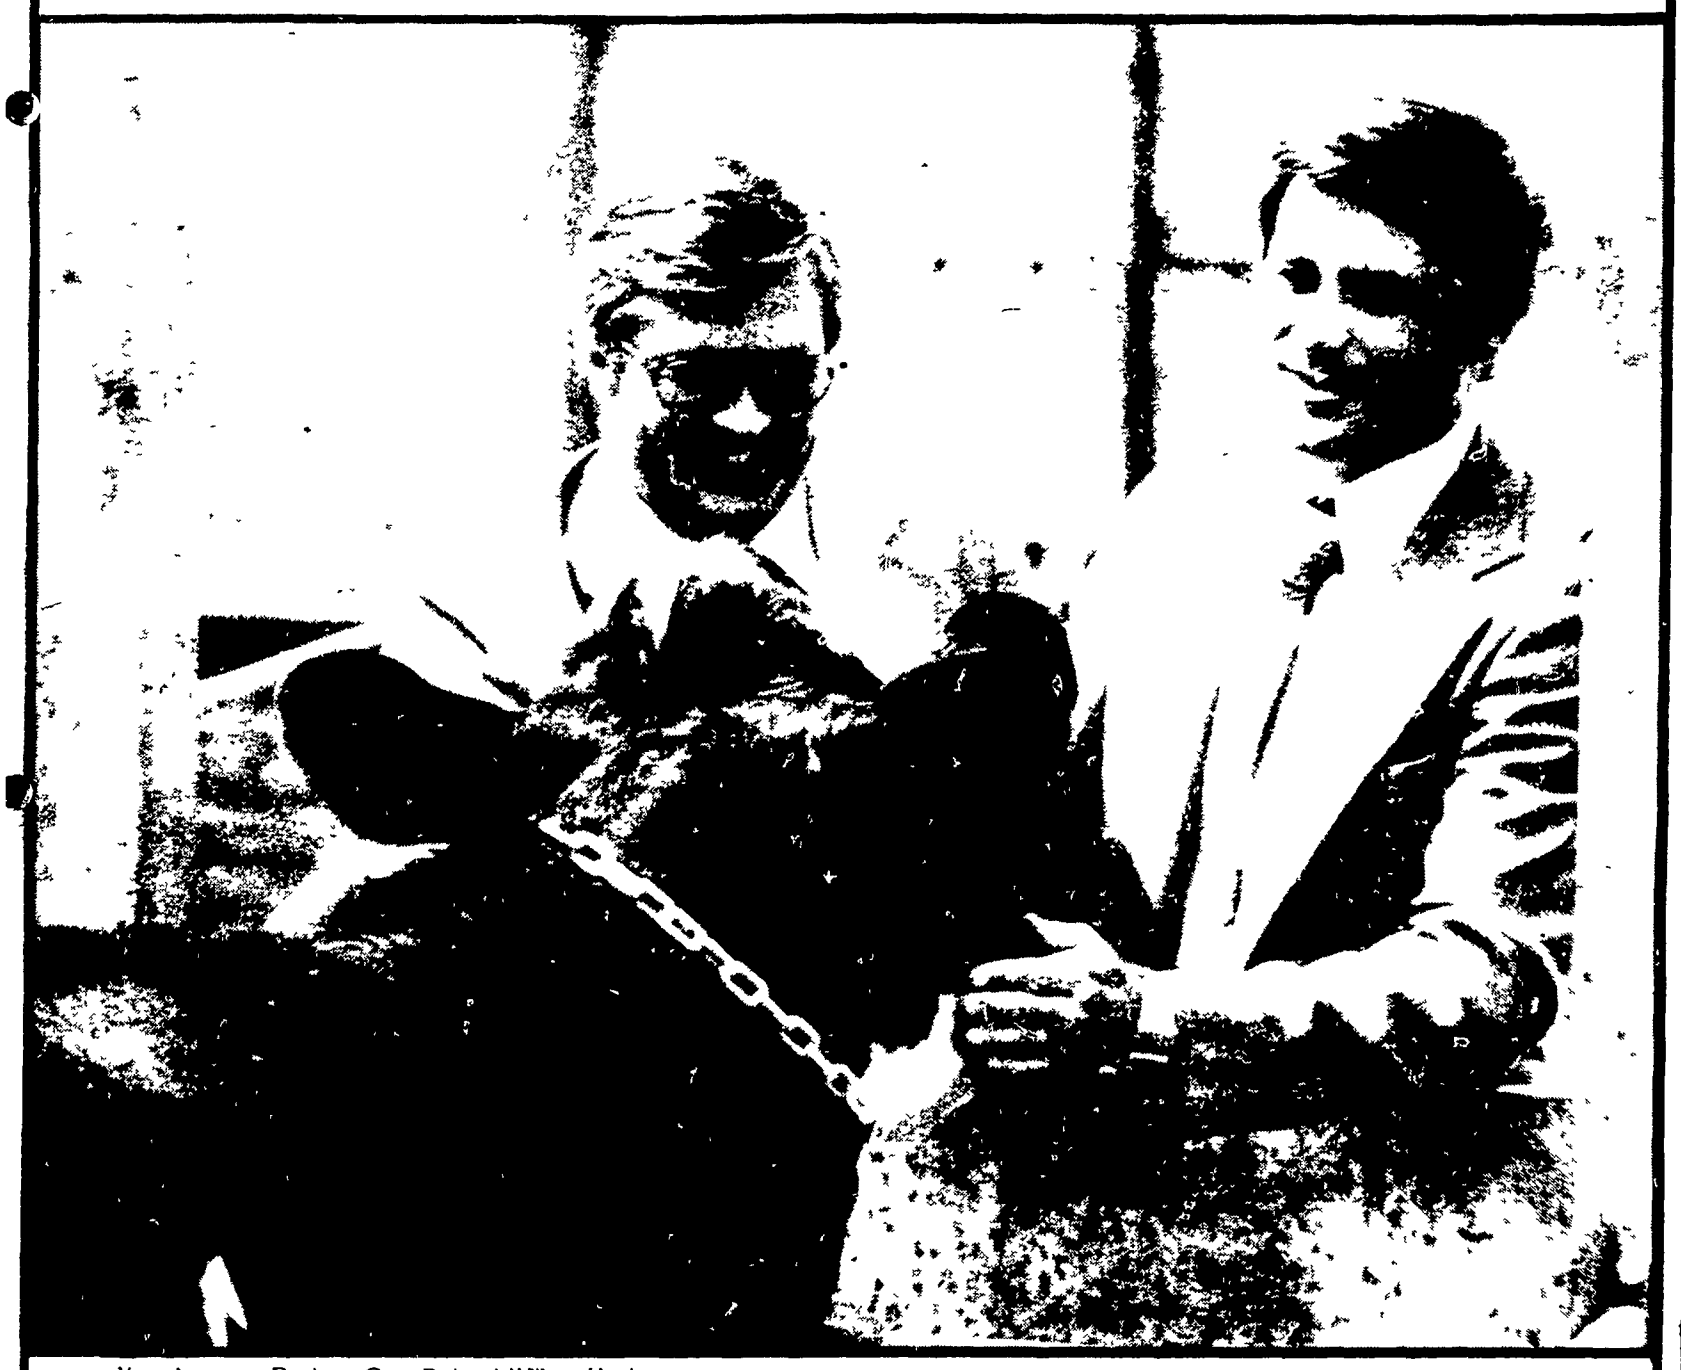
LANCASTER — 4-H youngsters learn to care for embryos as the egg incubates like a mother hen would care for incubating eggs. Real mothers feel sorry for chicks or embryos in an incubator because they have no mother.

The 4-H leader, school teacher or 4-H member must care for the incubator, egg, embryo, and chick as a real mother would. This 4-H activity tends to rehabilitate some handicapped youngsters according to their school teachers who are 4-H embryology leaders.

Many youngsters begin to study more actively as well as participate in class after they once complete the 4-H embryology project. Nearly all youngsters show intense interest in this project as they learn to care for and protect the young fragile life of the embryo or chick.

Now that school is in session if you have a youngster between 8 and 18 years of age, have them contact their county agent to enroll in 4-H embryology.

Meet your American Banker.



Your American Bankers Gene Richard William Hughes

He puts a lot of stock in your farm.

A major challenge to the success of raising livestock is proper money management. That's a challenge your American Banker is proud to accept. Because the people in our Agri-Business Department have farming backgrounds, they understand the everyday financial needs of farmers. So when they come out to see you, they speak your language.

Since the turn of the century, American Bank has had a special kinship with farmers and their land. Over the years we've kept pace with their needs with loans for livestock, new equipment, construction and remodeling. As times and needs changed, we helped with lines of credit and operating capital. Today, we're still maintaining that pace with additional financial services like trusts, retirement and estate planning, and savings and checking accounts.

American Bankers come from farming stock. So it comes as no surprise that we have a lot of pride in the farmers we work for. If you'd like to see us, call our Agri-Business Department at (215) 375-5993. We'll put a lot of stock in your ideas

Lebanon farmers, businessmen swap jobs

BY SHEILA MILLER

LEBANON — How many times have you heard the expression "Walk a mile in someone else's shoes to understand what they're going through." The purpose behind this familiar saying is to try to get people to see the world from another person's point of view.

In Lebanon County, in honor of Farm City Week, three farmers and three commercial businessmen did just that — they swapped jobs for a day to learn what life is like on the other side of the fence.

Participating in the exchange were farmers Donald Bollinger, Albert Moyer, and Abe Hoover. From the city—side came Albert Murry, president of Lebanon Valley National Bank; Fred Kelly, manager of Sears Robeck and Co.; and Dave Broderick, administrator of Lebanon's Good Samaritan Hospital.

Bollinger, Murry exchange

KLEINFELTERSVILLE — The first exchange in this experiment in communications found Al Murry at the Donald Bollinger farm. Said Murry, "I was here at 5 a.m. — I beat Donald to the barn."

During the morning milking, while the cows stood patiently in their stanchions and milk streamed through the pipeline, Murry said he observed quite a number of things For instance, he said, "I learned that cows have no teeth up front, and I know now you just don't mate any old cow with any old bull."

Murry admitted that when he arrived at the Bollinger farm, he knew absolutely nothing about farming. But by the time breakfast was ready, Murry said he found out you "tend to get very dirty around the farm."

He beamed with pride when he remarked he knew the meaning of some numbers in the dairy business "If a cow has a number like 6.24 on the card hanging over her in the barn, the 6 is her style rating, the 2 is a code for her height, and the 4 indicates her strength

While spending the day at Willow Maple Farm, Murry was introduced to a relatively new management tool — embryo transplanting. He also walked through Bollinger's broiler house, and got a second lick at feeding and milking.

The 44 dairy cows at Willow Maple are all registered Holsteins with a DHI record of 20,500 pounds milk and 698 fat. "Our cows have been the highest herd in milk production in Lebanon

Willow Maple Farm was the scene of the first farmer, businessman job swap. Albert Murry, president of the Lebanon Valley National Bank exchanged jobs for a day with dairyman Donald Bollinger.

Murry, left, has a real feel for farming — sampling the moist silage. Partners at Willow Maple Farm are Donald Bollinger, center, and father Harold Bollinger.

Moyer, Kelly exchange

LEBANON — Albert Moyer, dairy farmer, was the next to participate in the job exchange. He learned what it's like to manage a large department store when he sat behind the desk of Fred Kelly, manager of Sears Roebuck and Co. for a day

Moyer had a pleasant surprise when his work day began at 9 a.m. rather than his usual 5 a.m. for milking.

Sitting through a meeting of floor supervisors, Moyer said he was reminded of the importance of discussing problems candidly between employees, and together with management looking for solutions.

"When you walk through the store as a customer, you're not aware of all the things that are going on behind the scenes," he remarked. "Stores, like farms, have problems — inventory problems and customer relations.

"Here at Sears, if the employees have a criticism, they bring it to management's attention. They're not afraid to talk up.

"I never realized how critical open communication was in running an operation I plan to adopt this into my farm operation with my three employees. We'll get together as a group when ever the need arises. Talking as a group rather than with individuals will help to avoid conflicting stories."

Moyer said he also was impressed with the computer system at Sears, and said he may look into putting a small one into his operation. "I liked the idea that all the information was available at the touch of the button "

When comparing farm-city experiences with shoplifting and theft, Moyer said he relies on observant neighbors, good visibility, and, above all, a good dog

Fred Kelly stated that he feels fortunate that the Sears store he manages is in Lebanon County. "The people here are family oriented — it's a religious community — so we have a low crime rate."

He pointed out his department store has problems paralleling those experienced on farms "Our problem is getting everything done without things breaking down "

After the store closed its management doors for the day, Kelly accompanied Moyer to his dairy operation north of Lebanon. That evening Moyer introduced Kelly to a dairy and poultry operation owned by neighbor Robert Lentz

The next morning found Kelly up and anxiously awaiting his debut in the barn 'Even though we only got to bed around midnight, I was up and dressed before Al knocked on my door at 4 a.m."

Kelly assisted Moyer with milking 90 head of Holstein cows, 75 percent of which are home bred Then at 6.30 a.m., they went over Moyer's DHI and breeding records while eating breakfast.

"The belief that dairy farmers come in and take a cat nap after milking just isn't the case," Kelly chuckled. "That time is spent doing paper work Farmers nowadays are much more sophisticated businessmen."

Kelly commented that through the exchange, he has gotten a closer look at the farm community. "This has been a rough year for farmers in our area, and it's reflected in the community's business. The formula for farming and for commercial business is the same, although farmers have more variables to deal with — they're marketing a different kind of merchandise

"This year farmers have the same operating costs to contend with, but they see their feed, electricity and fuel costs keep going up At Sears, we have to work with the same percent factors, but farmers have less control on their income. They can't control prices, so they're not as flexible — they can't adjust prices to cover costs."

Back in the barn at 8:30 a.m., Kelly helped Moyer with the feeding, done for the most part automatically.

Moyer's operation is slightly different from most Lebanon County dairy farmers. Instead of owning a farm, Moyer leases 450 acres of cropland He rents the farm and buildings that house his cattle and equipment from Alfred Brandt, on a yearly basis.

Since he took over the Brandt farm in 1974, Moyer said, there were two new silos erected. The barn also underwent some remodeling, with comfort stalls being converted into a free stall setup with a California-type milking stall.

Moyer's herd, which is 95 percent registered, has a record of 16,000 pounds of milk and 640 pounds fat for 305 days His two top producing cows are Paula and Rhea, both five-year-olds with 24,000 pounds milk records Both cows were sired by Arbandale Maple David.

This bull was sired by Citation R Maple out of one of Moyer's two excellent cows, eleven-year-old Delight Moyer's other excellent cow, six-year-old Orna, is also sired by Citation R Maple

Moyer's current breeding program is making use of a heat synchronization management tool "I used to run a bull with my heifers, but now I realize I can upgrade my herd faster by breeding even my first calf heifers with proven sires,"

Albert Moyer changed hats recently and turned from dairyman to store manager.

Hoover, Broderick exchange

LEBANON — What does it feel like to go from farmer to administrator of a large hospital? And, can a hospital administrator handle the complexities of a day in the life of a farmer?

To find out, you'd have to talk to farmer Abe Hoover and Good Samaritan Hospital Administrator Dave Broderick. Each experienced hectic days while wearing the other's shoes.

For Abe Hoover, who is co-pastor of Gingrich's Mennonite Church along with his farming responsibilities being inside the hospital was nothing new. But acting as the administrator — now that was a new step.

Hoover explained that his day at the hospital began at 7:30 a.m. with a department of medicine meeting, where physicians reviewed various reports. The pace picked up with a tour of the facilities, an annual report review, a meeting with nurses to discuss staffing problems, a meeting on the United Way campaign, and a meeting with the volunteer services director.

That took him up to 3 p.m. and a three-hour tour of some more of the hospital's facilities. Then at 7 p.m. it was off to the Jonestown Lions Club to talk to the group about hospital services.

According to Broderick, who was at Hoover's side through this hectic day, it was just a typical day of a hospital administrator.

Like his fellow exchange participants, Hoover said he was excited about the personal relationships and communications between hospital employees and administration. "Everyone is treated on the same level, no matter what the position," he said. "The function or roles can change, but everyone is important."

Hoover added he was impressed with the current data available to the administrator through the computer system at the hospital, and reemphasized the importance of keeping daily records at the farm.

"I also noticed how important it is to departmentalize," he said. "Expertise and specialization are needed in various areas in the hospital. This can be easily applied to my farming operation, where one of my sons can specialize in field crops, another in dairying, another in chemicals and fertilizers, and so on."

Hoover pointed out that his day as hospital administrator made him aware of how much importance city businesses place on beautification. "It's important to keep the outward appearance neat and clean whether in town or on the farm," he said.

"And finally, it's vital to have a vision for the future in the agricultural community," Hoover said, while looking over blueprints for future architectural improvements for the hospital.

In describing his exchange to the farm, Dave Broderick commented, "I didn't realize how a successful farmer had to be a good manager too. All those cost accounting records, future planning — I was impressed — you'd think Abe was president of GM."

Broderick recounted his day on the farm which started at 4:45 a.m.

"After Abe listened to the Western markets on the radio at 5 a.m., we headed for Farm No. 4 and opened the doors for 50 dairy cows that were waiting to be milked. While there, we took a look at the DHI records.

"Then, we drove to Farm No. 1 where I learned the mechanics of milking 80 cows.

"When we reached Farm No. 2, we fed 185 head of beef steers and talked a bit about the crops grown on the farms.

"At the next stop, the Henry farm, I helped to shovel feed for 40 dairy heifers and dry cows. And at the Smith farm, we fed 120 steers and 20 heifers.

"Then it was back to Farm No. 4 where I watched the milk being picked up by the tank truck

"Later that morning, we loaded 15 head of steers and headed for Vintage Auction On the drive down, we talked about profit planning Abe knew exactly what it cost him to feed those steers, and just how much he'd have to get for them at auction

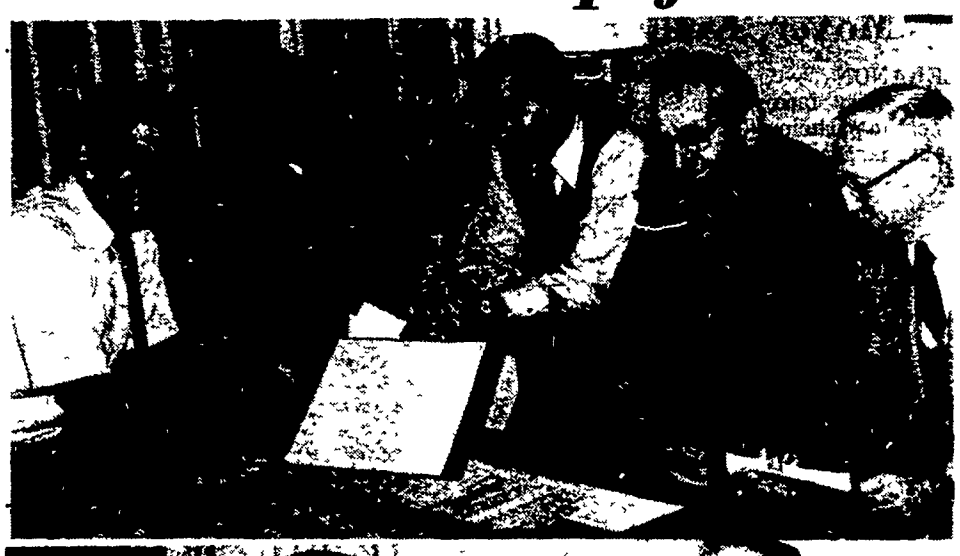
"After a swing by the Lancaster Feeder Pig Auction and the feed mill, we headed back to the farm for a big family dinner

Hoover Farms, which is a family partnership under consideration for incorporation, consists of five farms along with some leased acreage. Along with father, Abe, three sons, Dale, Dean and Reed, work full-time on the farms with another son, Nevin, employed part-time.

There are numerous enterprises at Hoover Farms, including 130 milking registered Holstein cows plus 80 replacement heifers. They also raise about 100 head of hogs and 600 head of beef steers each year, along with keeping 7000 laying hens.

What makes Hoover Farms a successful operation? Abe concluded by saying, "We operate as stewards of the soil and believe that God is owner of everything. Our success reflects God's goodness."

In it's first attempt at a farmer-city businessman exchange, it appears that Lebanon's Farm City efforts have been successful, too



"Agriculture needs to have a vision for the future," said Abe Hoover, second from right, while looking over future hospital building plans with Dave Broderick, Good Samaritan Hospital Administrator, left; Naomi Loy, Associate Director of Nursing, Bob Hoffman, Director of Community Relations; and Wilbur Weik, Interior Designer

DO YOU REALLY NEED A STORAGE BUILDING THIS GOOD?

If you could afford a new building every 10 years, a Circle Steel building wouldn't be necessary. But most farmers make an investment in a building that will last longer than 10 years...many are investing in Circle Steel to get that longer life with less yearly maintenance.

If you want long-term return on your building investment, make it a Circle Steel...from

"Harvestall Chillcuring® works. It's this simple: Harvestall gives me a better product for less."

MERLE STOLTZFUS, Elverson, Pa.

"We've had our 48 foot Harvestall® bin for three seasons now and I really couldn't be much happier with it. Before the Harvestall® we used a batch dryer. Now it's for sale. We found you just can't batch dry corn as cheap as you can cure it with the Harvestall®. Last year I know it didn't cost more than 4¢ a bushel for Chillcuring®. Most of the corn went in at 26% to 27%. Some was over 30%, but we had no mold problem. As a matter of fact our test weight was up around 56 lbs. Some was as high as 58 lbs.

"The farmer really needs storage if he's going to be able to market his crop to his advantage. The Harvestall® system gives him not only storage, but eliminates the need for drying equipment and expensive fuel. Plus at harvest I can fill the bin as fast as the combine brings it in.

"It's really as simple as this: Harvestall® gives me a better product at less cost. So I'm not afraid to recommend the Harvestall because it works so well for me."

The Harvestall Chillcuring System

It's simple When grain comes out of the field it's a living seed So instead of destroying the seed with high heat moisture is removed with natural air ventilation The grain keeps all its feed value, there is less shrinkage than with heat drying because only moisture is removed, not dry matter You ll never see white dust in Chillcured corn You actually save half of what you're used to losing in heat shrink

There's no gas or oil to buy Natural air carries away heat and moisture as the corn releases it

Harvestall Chillcuring is a back-to-basics system that just simply makes good sense Find out more about it he said. Moyer added he is using primarily two bulls — Elevation and Creek's Bluff Elevation Lester.

Like many of the area farmers, Moyer said he is concerned about having enough feed for his cattle this winter. "I planted 200 acres of corn and only got a quarter crop. Instead of 150 bushels per acre, I only got 40. If it would have been like last year, I would still have had 10,000 bushels of corn to sell after I filled the silos."

Moyer also ensiles his first cutting alfalfa, and bales the second and third cuttings. "The cows like the hay," he said, "and they seem to have less twisted stomachs."

Kelly pointed out the haylage that was harvested in the earlier part of the year is moister than the corn silage harvested this fall. "The cows eat and do better on the moister feed,' he said.

In raising his calves, Moyer does not use hutches They're raised in individual pens in a well ventilated wing of the barn. A pair of fans and a vent system in the ceiling which allows fresh air to circulate from the top floor of the barn are the key to raising the calves inside, said Moyer

After a closer look at Moyer's massive corn harvester and hay mower and conditioner, both self-propelled, Kelly was aware of the physical dangers that can occur by accident and carelessness on the farm

Rounding out the day with a trip to neighbor Hershey Bare's modern dairy farm, Kelly left the farm of independent dairyman Albert Moyer with a better appreciation of agri-business

"I'd like to bring my son here for the day Farmer's don't get a chance to sit down in front of the television — they're too bush for anything more than the news and futures markets," he smiled.

Donning dungarees, work jacket and gloves, Fred Kelly pitched in with the chores at Fernhost Farms. His experience on the 90 milking cow operation is one he said he'd like to share with his son.

County since 1973, added Bollinger

The top cow in the herd is Willow Maple Apollo Ginger, whose record is 28,000 pounds milk and over 1000 pounds fat She is the cow Bollinger has used as his primary transplant cow Bollinger first started transplanting in November 1978

Ginger's sire is Hilltop Ivanhoe Apollo out of Willow Maple Gay Annette, a daughter of Harrisburg Gay Ideal Annette is also the dam of a young bull bred at Willow Maple Farm who now stands at stud for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative According to Harold Bollinger, Donald's father and partner, Superb, shows a lot of promise although he is not old enough to be proven

In the A I program, Bollingers use several top studs, including Marvex, Superior, Penn Star, Keyhoe Eric, Topper, and Very

In order to feed his top-producing herd, Bollinger raises about 80 acres of corn and 55 acres of alfalfa

"Two-thirds of my ground is no-tilled," Bollinger explained, "and the remainder is chiseled All my full-season corn goes into the silo and my mid-season corn is shelled The alfalfa either goes into the silo or is baled"

Bollinger pointed out he hires a custom combine to shell his-mid season corn when it has dried down to about 22 percent He explained he adds propionic acid to the grain and stores it in a pile about six to seven feet deep on his upstairs barn floor

The propionic acid, he said, costs about 38 cents a pound, and it takes ½ pound of acid per bushel of corn But, Bollinger said, he doesn't have the expense of hauling the grain to a dryer, along with the extra expense of drying "And I can't keep it in the silo at that percent moisture — it would rot"

Bollinger said he feeds his cattle according to each cow's production "They get corn silage, haylage, and about 4 pounds of baled hay per cow Then shelled corn, soybean meal, vegetable oil, and distiller's grain are added

Murry summed up his learning experience on the farm by saying, "A cow is a machine You feed it to produce milk And when it's not making milk, it had better be making babies Otherwise, it'll be making hamburgers."

Perry County agent retires

NEW BLOOMFIELD — Roy F. Snyder, Perry County Extension agent on Penn State Extension Service staff retired November 15th with 32 years of services.

A native of Berks County, he served as assistant county agent in Snyder, Cumberland, and Perry counties prior to his promotion to county agent in 1953.

Snyder earned a bachelor of science degree from Penn State in 1948, majoring in dairy husbandry. He received a master of arts degree in Extension education from Michigan State University in 1959. He also served three years as an officer in the Army Air Corps during World War II.

During his tenure in Perry County, the Dairy Herd Improvement Association testing program has more than doubled in enrollment and production per cow has increased by about 75 percent.

Snyder initiated a brucellosis eradication program for county dairymen in the early 1950's Through his leadership, brucellosis was eliminated as a major disease with educational programs contributing to this success.

The retired Perry County agent emphasized efficient crop production to support dairy production. Numerous farmers have been winners in the 5-Acre Corn Contest He also placed emphasis on testing for lime and fertilizer requirements.

Snyder assisted county farmers with barn remodeling and plans for new farm structures. He also worked closely with livestock producers in the improvement of waste management procedures.

If you're out to beat anthracnose

That's what SARANAC AR is all about!

in anthracnose country, it's the best alfalfa you can plant.

Even in sticky, hot, humid weather when anthracnose is sweeping neighboring fields, Saranac AR goes right on producing as though anthracnose had never been heard of.

It's bred for your kind of land and your kind of weather. Bred to meet your highest goals . . . even when ordinary alfalfas are curling over and turning yellow.

Saranac AR meets hard winters and bacterial wilt head on . . and comes out on top. It's bred for anthracnose resistance, fast recovery and long-lived stands. Pre-inoculated, of course. It's the only one to plant where anthracnose is a threat. After all, that's what Saranac AR is all about!

At annual meeting

Farm Credit members elect directors

BY CURT HARLER

STRASBURG — Directors and nominating committee members for the Lancaster Farm Credit Associations were announced Friday morning following three separate annual meetings which were held earlier in the week

A total of 1000 farmers attended the sessions, held Tuesday night at Palmyra, Wednesday at Strasburg, and Thursday night at Halifax.

All incumbent directors were re-elected.

Elected first position director from Lancaster County to the Production Credit Association was David M. Garber, Rl Marietta. He operates a 1.25 million bird broiler setup on a 150 acre farm.

Elected the second position director from Lebanon County was Marlin H Hitz, 252 Hemlock Lane, Lebanon Hitz is in partnership with three sons at Dol-Mar dairy, a 130 cow Holstein herd and jug operation

1981 Nominating Committee for the PCA will include. David W. Brubaker, Lancaster County, Clayton R. Nissley, Lancaster County; and Arthur R Krall, Lebanon County

Alternates will be David S Coble, Lebanon County; Mark L. Copenhaver, Lebanon County, and Eugene R. Sweigard, Dauphin County.

In the Federal Land Band voting, first position Lancaster County director went to Paul M. Herr, Rl Quarryville. He owns a 200 acre farm and feeds 500 steers and runs a 25,000 bird laying operation.

The three members of the 1981 nominating committee will be. Mark H Bomberger, Lebanon County, R Scott Buckwalter, Lancaster County; and Elmer H Weber, Lancaster County

Alternates will include John D Cassel, Lancaster County, G Sherwood Huntzberger, Dauphin County; and Robert F. Keiper, Jr., Dauphin County.

In other business, General Manager Carl Brown announced the Board had decided to change the annual meeting date to sometime in March so members can be given a full fiscal year report rather than a nine month report as currently is done.

There was no objection at the meetings so there will be no annual meeting at all during 1981. The next meeting will be in March 1982.

Brown sidesteped the issue of how high interest rates will be in coming months. He did encourage farmers to "borrow smart," noting steers will have to do quite well to pay for 20 percent interest

Brown also asked farmers' patience when accounts are switched to new offices in the computer system

Associate General Manager Dennis Allen told Lancaster area farmers of two new offices being opened to serve them. One opens December 1 in Quarryville.

The second will be in New Holland and is scheduled to open in 1981. It will be located near the New Holland Livestock Stables.

Allen said both the PCA and FLB are growing. PCA has 166 new members, he said That brings the total to 1352 members with an outstanding loan volume of $71,057,976

Land Bank also is growing with 215 new members. Currently it services 1225 members with an outstanding loan volume of $142,308,017

Office Manager Bruce Hoffman told farmers the Association sees continued conservative use of money imposed by the Federal Government.

Based on the trends of the past three months he predicted higher interest rates in coming months, and a 'volatile" rates for some time.

He pointed to the rising operating costs experienced by the Associations due to higher money costs, salaries, travel expenses, cost of office space, and the 80 percent growth in loan volume

On the bright side he pointed out that Credit Banks still have good ratings in money markets which means they can gather funds for borrowers' use at favorable rates

Lancaster Holsteins

Lancaster County's Dairy Princess Connie Balmer reminded dairymen of the need to promote their product. She used a patriotic theme to bring the message of milk to the public.

In ballotting for directors, Joe Wivell, Columbia R1, was re-elected. Also elected were Dale Peifer, Kirkwood; and D. Lamar Witmer, Manheim. In the re-organization of the board following the business meeting, Nathan Stoltzfus, Gap R2, was re-elected president and John Barley, Conestoga R2, was re-elected vice-president

Greg Landis, Lancaster R6, was elected secretary, and Dale Peifer was elected treasurer.

State Director Robert H Kauffman encouraged breeders to attend the Pennsylvania Holstein Convention to be held in February at the Pocono Manor and announced that the 1982 state convention will be hosted by the South Central District with headquarters to be at the Marriott located along Route 283, near Harrisburg.

Clarence Stauffer, consultant for the national association, told breeders to expect major changes as the association makes the switch to an "area concept" with headquarters for the local area to be in Linglestown north of Harrisburg. He said there will be 12 classifiers and seven consultants working out of the area office, and said that calls to consultants will be channeled through that office, which will cover a 15-state area.

A major change will be in the classification program with classifiers working five days a week and being home on weekends. Stauffer announced that classification in Lancaster County will be done alone, and will be

Century Farm award winner

McSparran homestead is over a century old

BY SUSAN KAUFFMAN
Staff Correspondent

HENSEL — Among the eleven Lancaster County Century Farms honored this past week was the Robert B. and Charlotte F. McSparran farm along Goshen Mill Road in the Southern end of the County.

Robert McSparran's uncle, Clyde McSparran, brought it to the family's attention recently that the homestead is actually 101 years old this year. Having a very keen memory for details from many years past, Clyde recalled that his father, James M. McSparran, had purchased the 106 acre farm March 31, 1879, from Thomas Trago trustees.

According to Bob McSparren, who along with his wife, Charlotte, now owns the property, additional land purchases throughout the past century have brought the total to 210 acres. Bob said his grandfather, James, paid $4000 for the 106 acres and a few years later put out another $2800 to build a large, well-constructed, frame house for his large family.

The original barn still stands with a number of additions to it and the old small house is still standing. The barn is now used for storage and housing young stock, but the small house has not been used for a long time.

Bob's Uncle Clyde bought the, by-then, larger farm from his father, James, in 1929. Clyde McSparren continued farming for many years and lived in the large house with his wife until three years ago this month when they moved into the Presbyterian Home in Quarryville.

In 1946, Bob and Charlotte moved into their present home, also a large frame house nearly 100 years old. Four years later they bought the farm including the original 106 acres dating back to 1879.

Bob and Charlotte reared four children. Ellis, Robert, Jr., John and Jane. Their youngest son, John, is in a partnership now with them They milk sixty Guernseys and raise their replacements, totaling another fifty head.

The house Bob's grandfather built many decades ago is rented to a family while Bob and Charlotte continue to live in their home along route 272, just east of the original farm which borders Goshen Mill Road.

The McSparran family for generations has been active in community and political functions.

The James M. McSparran homestead, preserved by both his son Clyde and James' grandson, Robert, continues to be part of Lancaster County's agricultural economy

Bob and Charlotte McSparran stand in front of barn which was part of original 106 acre purchase by Bob's grandfather, James M. McSparran, in 1879.

Small grain seed directory available

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — The Maryland Department of Agriculture has good news for farmers thinking ahead toward their Fall plantings of small grains such as wheat and barley. The supply of locally-produced, Maryland Certified Seed will be good.

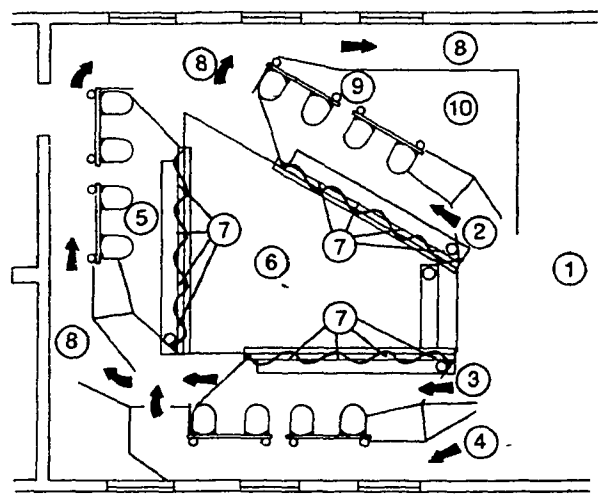
TRIGON MILKING PARLOR



A 12-Stall Trigon is basically a Double-4 Herringbone, plus 4 additional herringbone stalls across the end, arranged as a Trigon!

Here's How Clay Trigon Milking Parlor Works

Trigon arrangement calls for three rows of four herringbone milking stalls designed around a triangle Cows are brought into parlor from holding area (1) Clay crowd gate can make this operation more efficient Cows enter parlor at either three entrances (2) (3) and (4) At (2) and (3) they go directly into herringbone At (4) cows go behind row of stalls (3) and enter through gates to milking area (5) Automated air operated power gates can make this operation smooth and easy Operator is in 30 deep milking area (6) and he milks cows by moving in a circular pattern around parlor Udder stimulators (7) can be used to prepare cows The operator attaches the milker unit When cow has been milked the milker unit can be removed by automated take off units or manually The cows leave the parlor in the return lane (8) Power operated cutting gates (9) can be used to divert cows that need treatment into a catch pen (10)

Ideal For Fast, Efficient One-Man Milking

Historically one man has worked most efficiently in a Double 4 Herringbone milking parlor Double 6's have been developed and an outstanding operator can operate it on a one man basis over a short period of time Now the fully automated Trigon makes it possible for one man to operate the milking capacity equivalent of a Double-8 with fewer steps and more cow control Fully automated entrance and exit gates automatic take off units on the milking machines and such other automated units as the Clay Cow Fetch crowd gate automatic udder stimulators power operated cutting gates Easy Action doors and feed bowl closures make this design a model for efficiency and economical operation In a fully automated 12-Stall Trigon one man can milk up to 80 cows per hour!

Letters To The Editor

Dear editor:

Petroleum, on which our country heavily depends, is a dimishing resource and in light of increasingly expensive and unstable oil supplies, any analysis of our country's resources for self-sufficiency has to include alcohol derived from corn. Our freedom depends on our mobility. Crops cannot be planted or harvested without fuel. A shortage at the wrong time would be disastrous.

As events in the Middle East unfold it becomes more and more apparent how easily and swiftly our oil supplies could be threatened, with our government being powerless to defend them. A 5% shortage is enough to create a serious shortage as in 1973 and 1975. A 25% shortage, which is equivalent to Middel East imports, would be disastrous to the farming community. Agriculture is the backbone of the nation and must be kept strong. This is why we can no longer depend on unstable oil prices and supplies both foreign and domestic.

There are several liquid fuel alternatives; oil shale, heavy tar sand, coal gasification and alcohol. With the exception of alcohol, the other alternatives will be very expensive, controlled by big business and be at least 7 to 10 years before they will be practical if at all. Quoting the United States Department of Energy, "Alcohol is the only alternative energy source which will have a significant impact on energy independence in the next decade."

Economically and strategetically it makes sense to have an energy source which is manufactured from local feedstocks and shipped back to local farmers, thereby keeping the dollars circulating locally and strengthening the community instead of frittering them away overseas to the advantage of big business, both foreign and domestic. Such a plan would be especially feasible if the farmers would have some control over their energy source.

It is imperative people realize what a serious condition we are really in. It is difficult to imagine what would happen if indeed Middle East oil would be completely shut off as could easily happen. On top of this, the Russian oil wells (two years ago Russian was the world's top producer of oil) have peaked in the past year and a half and they will be very soon on the world market for oil, obtaining it through Soviet subsidized money or by force. In any case, it is imperative we get started immediately on a national alcohol project, not just talking about it.

Vice President
Penn Agrihol Coop.

Dear editor:

We're glad you had 'tongue in cheek' when you wrote the milk check-off editorial in Saturday's issue of Lancaster Farming. Our contention for a long time has been – it's under-promotion, not over-production.

Another topic for an editorial could be -- Producer are you a good consumer?

Give it to 'em, Curt!

scheduled next for March 1982.

In a report from the state office, Mike Weimer announced the goal for Lancaster County membership is 678, and encouraged breeders to work in the current membership campaign to reach that goal. He pointed out that foreign and domestic interest still runs high in cattle from Pennsylvania with a special interest in young bulls from this state.

President Nathan Stoltzfus presented a $25 savings bond to Mark Frey, Ronks R1, as winner of the country Future Farmers of America dairy judging contest. Frey is a member of the Pequea Valley FFA Chapter.

Lancaster County Dairy Princess Connie Balmer told the dairymen about her activities, including serving as a host on the recent Farm-City week tour which brought 650 people to her family's Guernsey farm near Lititz. She also presented a brief program on "Milk - The American Way", featuring patriotic music as a background.

She spoke out firmly in support of advertising programs saying that it is necessary to "get consumers to drink milk instead of cola."

She said the dairy industry makes a unique contribution to the health and welfare of this country through it many products.

She added, "One of the ways to keep the country strong is to keep its citizens strong."

She said this can be done with a balanced diet including the recommended allowances of milk.

Entertainment was provided by Merv Sands local entertainer who now works and lives in New York City.

Century Farm award winner

Seven generations of Nisslys farm near Mount Joy

MOUNT JOY — For seven generations now, an 86-acre farm near here has been passed down through the Nissly family.

This week the farm was recognized as one of Lancaster County's Century Farms. What won't be recognized is that Gerald N. Erb will be the recipient of the honor.

Erb is the youngest son of Paul and Katherine Nissly Erb. Out of a family of six children, only Gerald and his oldest brother Wilbur have accepted the challenge of farming for occupations. Wilbur is farming in East Donegal Township while Gerald purchased the family farm in 1971

The Nissly family took ownership of the farm back in 1822. Gerald points to a calf-skin document hanging in the office of the 1857 brick house where in scroll-type print is written the original William Penn Indenture for their farm. This document bears the date 1772

Other antiques decorating the high-ceilinged rooms in the farmhouse advertise Erb's interest in agricultural history, especially that of the Nissly family

He recalled that his great great grandfather Joseph had originally owned five farms in the area until 1897.

"That's when the estate was broken up. Each of his five children received one of the farms,' Erb explained. All that's left now of the original estate, he pointed out, is his 86-acre farm

Pulling out farm records kept by his grandfather and a diary kept by Erb's Great Aunt Annie Trout, Erb shared some of the family's past history.

From Aunt Annie's diary, the Erbs discovered that at one time in the family's past, the dining room in their Civil War-era farmhouse had been used as a mortuary.

The farm records have served as an invaluable link to the way of life on the farm around the turn of the century.

"My grandfather started farming back in 1905 He was able to start with one tobacco check amounting to a little over $3000. With this he paid for all his equipment in cash — a total of slightly more than $1600. The highest amount on his purchase list was the pair of mules he bought for $450

" A quarter century later, my grandfather bought the farm Up until that time, he had been renting it from my great grandfather.

"My grandfather always claimed this farm was only big enough for four cows — and that's all he ever had. After my dad started farming it, there were 18 cows here. Now, we have 100 cows on test. It's a matter of economics on size."

Helping Gerald in the commercial dairy operation are his wife Judith Ann Emenheiser Erb and their two children, Amy Jo, 10, and Mark, 12. Amy Jo raises the calves and Mark helps with the barn and field work in the family farm tradition.

The Century Farm designation will be a heritage that Erb's children will be able to pass on to their families some day if the future allows family farms to continue as an American way of life

Said Erb, "I'm commited to preserving the family farm — it's a matter of great. importance to me."—SM

Symbolic of their belief in the family farm, the Erbs work together on their commercial dairy farm to improve their herd of Holsteins with each generation.

The Gerald Erb family, recipients of the Century Farm Award, pose proudly in front of the original calf-skin indenture for their 86-acre farm. The farm has been in the Nissly family for about 150 years.

Two win FFA Floriculture awards

KANSAS CITY — Two students from the Lancaster County-Mount Joy Vo-Tech School have achieved outstanding recognition in FFA National Floriculture contests held at the FFA Kansas Convention.

A First place Gold was awarded to Cathy Best from Columbia and a Silver awarded to Deborah Grube of Manheim. Their individual awards combined with Holly Eselby from Limerick, PA won Pennsylvania the third place team award out of thirty-six teams.

The National Floriculture Contest is a competitive activity in which FFA members test their judging and identification skills in Floriculture products.

In addition, contestants take a written examination testing general knowledge of such subjects as plant anatomy, growing media and diagnosis of plant disorders.

Contestants are also evaluated on their ability to make floral arrangements, pot chrysanthemum cuttings and take an order by telephone. The contest utilized plant material donated and loaned by merchants in the Kansas City area and was held at the Swope Park Municipal Complex in Kansas City, Missouri.

Members of Lancaster County Farmers Union Thursday night chose five delegates to the state convention. From left they include: Naomi Spahr, Neffsville; Forney Longenecker, Lititz; James Spahr, Lititz; Abe Witmer, Lititz; and Dan Groff, Lititz. The state meeting will be held January 19 and 20 at Grantville.

Farmers Union

Lancaster Farmers' Association also is on record supporting the Millersville farmer's proposal.

Amendments to Act 442 would allow appointment of a local preserve board rather than having a planning commission designate lands for agriculture; would allow a package of farms to be accepted as a district, rather than farm-by-farm approval, and would provide a 25 year review of ag districts with the option to abolish the district after each 25-year period

In other business, Lancaster Farmers Union is conducting a drive to boost membership by 50 farmers. Cost of a membership is $40 for two years or $200 for a lifetime. If the goal is attained members' names will be placed in a hat with the winner of the drawing getting a paid trip for two to the National Farmers Union convention in Altanta, Georgia.

The group is counting heavily on its success against the beef referendum in gathering members this year and in fighting the milk referendum

The Lancaster group named five delegates to the Pennsylvania Farmers Union convention to be held January 19 and 20, 1981 at the Holiday Inn, Grantville.

Chosen were Naomi Spahr, Neffsville, Forney Longenecker, Lititz, James Spahr, Lititz; Abe Witmer, Lititz, and Dan Groff, Lititz

All officers were re-elected for another term of office. They include Longenecker as president, James Spahr as vice president, and Naomi Spahr as secretary-treasurer

Cattlemen sponsor calf sale

READING — The newly forming Berks Cattlemen's Association is sponsoring a club calf and feeder calf sale as part of the fund raising efforts being put forth by the farming community of Berks County.

All proceeds earned from this event and the many other fund raising projects scheduled will be donated to the County 4-H Community Center Fund.

The sale will be held December 5th at 7:30 p.m. at the Leesport Market and Auction, Leesport.

Offered for sale will be approximately 70 head of calves, 40 of which will be club calves, with the rest selling as feeder calves.

Also being offered for sale will be several purebred Hereford heifers with papers.

The club calves will be graded before the sale by Lester Burdett, Penn State University Extension Livestock Specialist, and must have a frame score of 12 or better. These calves will be halter broke, acclimated, vaccinated for shipping fever and LBR, and on feed. They will be sold by the head with weights being announced.

The feeder calves will be sold by weight.

Anyone interested in selling calves through the sale is welcome. A ten percent commission is being charged for each calf sold, to be donated towards the 4-H Community Center Fund For further information contact: Ken Rarick at (215) 926-4903 or Clyde Myers at (215) 378-1327.

Auctioning the calves will be Ken Leiby, auctioneer.

Eastern Outdoor Show to run

HARRISBURG — The 26th annual Eastern Sports and Outdoor Show is scheduled to open for a nine-day run, Saturday, February 7, through Sunday, February 15, at the Pennsylvania State Farm Show Building.

Show Director Richard Libertine said this will be the longest run in the history of the sports and outdoor show. He said the addition of another day was made necessary by the extraordinarily large attendance of last year's show.

Libertine noted all of the most popular sports show activities will be back, including the week-long archery tournament· duck and turkey calling contests; duck decoy carving and painting competitions; and the Pennsylvania Jaycees/Daisy BB Gun Winter Championship Match, featuring school-age sharpshooters. Anglers will not want to miss the fly-tying contest and daily fishing clinics.

Several new special events, Libertine noted, are now being planned and will be announced closer to the opening date.

As in previous years, this will be a complete sports and outdoor show. Exhibitors from throughout the United States and Canada will display the latest in hunting, fishing, camping and backpacking gear. Boats and marine equipment will have a separate display hall, and hundreds of recreational vehicles are to be on view who needs them? You do!

Quality roughage alone can provide much of the protein and energy needed for milk production. But since roughages may lack both balance and quantity of minerals necessary for maximum milk production, bone and muscle development, and the most efficient utilization of other nutrients—many dairymen need a mineral supplement program

How can you tell if you need a mineral supplement program?

Let us make a free analysis of your forage crops. We'll give you a report on the nutrient value of your hay, silage, or other roughages, along with recommendations for any supplements—if necessary. We won't try to sell you anything you don't need!

Our three mineral mixes—Beacon Phos-Min, Beacon Mineral Ade and Beacon Cal-Min—are formulated by highly respected dairy nutrition specialists. The supplement they recommend will contain the necessary minerals to make up deficiencies or imbalance in your roughages and to achieve the proper calcium-phosphorus ratio in your total feeding program.

You can rest assured that you aren't paying extra for exotic ingredients, high transportation cost, and expensive promotion and sales cost.

With BEACON, you get more mineral units per dollar invested.

Mineral supplements, formulated especially for the cow at reasonable cost, are part of what we call "No nonsense feeding".

State to release guide on local food products

HARRISBURG— A Buyer's Guide to Pennsylvania Processed Food Products is being compiled by the Department of Agriculture's Bureau of Marketing.

Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell said the Buyer's Guide would be aimed at providing Pennsylvania wholesalers and retailers with accurate, up-to-date information on the sources and availability of Pennsylvania-processed foods.

He said, "The Buyer's Guide is another phase of the Department's initiatives at economic development in Pennsylvania. The 'Pennsylvania Agriculture - We're Growing Better' campaign is achieving success, and we felt that a buyer's guide to Pennsylvania processed food products would further stimulate the economy while helping smooth out some problems in the food marketing chain.

"Pennsylvania food wholesalers and retailers will be able, through the Buyer's Guide, to find food products which are processed in Pennsylvania, which means not only increased sales of these products, but the maintenance and hopefully expansion of Pennsylvania food processing firms," he said.

The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture has mailed notice of this Buyer's Guide to the 1400 food processing firms which are located in the Commonwealth. Firms have been asked to fill a questionnaire which will provide wholesalers and retailers with information such as types of products, brand names, availability, source of supply, and contact persons. Hallowell said the Buyer's Guide should be available to processed food product buyers in the spring of 1981.

"More than 800 retail supermarkets and grocery stores are already using the Pennsylvania Agriculture logo, and about 50 processors and producers," Hallowell said. "Our hope is that this Buyer's Guide will provide food retailers with the information necessary to increase the sales of these Pennsylvania-processed foods, and to support agriculture which is the second leading industry in the Commonwealth.

"Pennsylvania is the agricultural leader of the Northeast, and has ready access to markets throughout the region. Our food products, processed close to their source and their markets, can be in the market overnight, saving on long haul energy and transportation costs, while keeping food prices at reasonable levels," he added.

Sheepskin deeds date Manorfield Farm to 1761

COLUMBIA — Manorfield Farm is situated along a bend on a quiet country road in both Manor and West Hempfield townships. The farm is owned by seventh-generation Shellenbergers whose forefathers arrived in Philadelphia on September 30, 1727, according to a ship's list.

Charles Shellenberger and his wife Mary live on the farm, but it is jointly owned by Charles, his brother John, of Carlisle, and Robert, who is in the Peace Corp in Thailand

Charles and Mary are the keepers of the records, which include original sheepskin deeds from Richard and Thomas Penn, sons of William Penn, for 109 acres in 1761 Shellenberger notes that the deed states that the price paid was a half-penny sterling per acre annually. The number of years is not indicated.

Mary is not awed by the history which the farm represents because she knows that her family landed by ship on October 2, 1727, also in Philadelphia. Her family came from the Palatinate and now lives in Donegal, although she was born in Manor Township

The present farm consists of 138 acres, and is crop farmed in corn and tobacco, with a few sheep being raised. The farm, according to Shellenberger had always been a crop and general farm. He says, 'It was in general farming until my father went into the dairy business. I can remember feeding hogs "

Manorfield Farm, named because of its location in both Manor and West Hempfield townships, has large farmhouse dating to 1859.

Mary and Charles Shellenberger examine sheepskin deed which has been in family for seven generations.

Since 1930, his father and mother had had a herd of Jersey cows, which was sold after 50 years when a decision about modernization of facilities had to be made

Charles credits his father, D Lehman Shellenberger, with making the farm into a progressive, modern farm He notes, "He did a lot with soil conservation, using contouring and adding diversion ditches. He was also active in Farm Bureau and Extension He was very progressive - more than any before him "

There are actually two deeds available, one for Manorfield and one for an adjoining property which was the first purchased by the Shellenbergers when they settled here The deed to the neighboring land was dated 1748, and the Shellenbergers have found a note from 1750, stating that 30 shillings were paid for a survey of the property in Hempfield Township.

The Shellenbergers hailed from the Canton of Uri in Switzerland which is now part of Lechtenstein, and there is a "Shallenberger" coat of arms, complete with a history of the Shellenberger family from the Middle Ages Mary points out that there is a town of Shellenberger and a Mt Shellenberger in the present country of Lechtenstein

Ulrich was the original Shellenberger in this country, and the farm was passed down by the male heirs through seven generations The main farm house was built in 1859, and the barn in 1846 There is a tobacco shed which is believed to have been built earlier, but no original buildings survive. A nephew, Robert, lives in the main farm house.

Eighth generation operating Bannerview Farm

MARIETTA — BannerView Farm of Irwin and Grace Engle, R1 Marietta, has been in the family for eight generations and was purchased in 1802 by the first Engle family to set foot in the United States from Switzerland.

The Engles, spelled "Engel" in those days, settled by the Susquehanna River on land adjoining the present farm in 1754. In 1802, Irwin's ancestors purchased his present farm for the sum of "4,000 pounds of current Pennsylvania money in gold or silver coins." This averages 19½ pounds per acre for the original 203 acres but Engle says he's not sure of the value which that represented.

The original land was eventually divided between three families, with Irwin's father retaining 85 acres. In 1944, his father purchased back 24 of the original acres; in 1968 he purchased 44 acres; and last year Irwin purchased an additional 79 acres to bring the total acreage to 233, with 230 of it tillable.

According to Engle, the farm has been in a variety of crops over the years, including tobacco, wheat, barley and corn, and he and his wife presently raise corn and alfalfa as the main crops.

They are milking 145 head of Holsteins and have about 212 heifers. Irwin's brother Melvin also helps with the barn and field work. The Engles have one daughter, Daphne, 7, who helps feed calves.

The dairy business began with the marriage of Engle's parents about 50 years ago when they began "having a few cows and eventually had a stable for 16, which were milked by hand," Engle said By the time he was 10, Irwin remembers having increased the herd size to about 30, and because his father had a heart condition, his mother, the children and hired help accomplished the work.

Photo from 1900 shows farm buildings of Engle farm, which are believed to have been built around time land was purchased in 1802.

Engle studied vocational agriculture at Elizabethtown High School, and was a member of its FFA chapter. He began buying dairy cows at that time and added one row of ten cows of his own to his father's herd. Following graduation, Engle worked with his father for three years until his death and then worked for his mother for another 1½ years before purchasing the farm from her.

He said, "We gradually increased the size of the herd." The cows are contained in a free-stall barn and are milked in the older barn in 16-cow units.

Engle said he had always been told he was the fifth or six generation to farm the land, but closer study revealed his family to be the eighth generation. His searching was made somewhat easier because of an Engle family history, a bound volume covering the years of the family from their Swiss beginnings to their home at Wild Cat along the Susquehanna up until the year 1927. He speculates that they settled by the river because of its importance as a transportation source.

Engle says he imagines their chief reason for leaving Europe was for religious freedom and remarked that the original Engles founded the River Brethren Church on their farm. Part of that sect became Brethren in Christ

While no dates can be found on either the large farm home which was constructed in two sections or the barn, it is assumed that they were built shortly after the land was purchased.

The Engles are active members of the Maytown Brethren in Christ Church, and belong to the Lancaster County Holstein Association and Lancaster County Farmers Association. Engle is a member of the Elizabethtown Young Farmers Association

With accurate records and a family history, the Engles are proud of the history of their family, but are quietly carrying on the long tradition of farming spread over the eight generations which lived in this country

York 4-H beef club meets

YORK — The monthly meeting of the York County 4-H Baby Beef Club was held on November 10 at the 4-H Center.

At the recent York-Adams baby beef roundup and sale, members received an average of 87 cents a pound for the steers sold. Also, there were 14 steers selected to represent the county at the Pennsylvania Farm Show to be held in January at Harrisburg.

An election of officers was held and the new officers are: President - Bill Wise, Vice President - Bob Livingston, Secretary - Tammy Eisenhour, Asst. Manorfield Farm

A dairy kept by an aunt in the family records that she watched the Columbia Bridge burning "from a hill above the farm" during the Civil War. The second Jacob in the line of descendants, who owned the farm from 1830, operated a still and transported whiskey to Philadelphia in barrels.

Charles and Mary have three grown children. David C., pastor of Ross Street United Methodist church; Judith Boll, Hummelstown; and Karen Troop, Quarryville.

Shellenberger does all of the crop farming, but is also president of the board of directors of Manor Mutual Insurance Company and has his own agency. He is active in the Mountville Lions, and the Masonic Lodge. Both Charles and Mary are members of the Mountville United Methodist Church and Mary belongs to Farm Women Society 4 and is a member of the Mountwaybia Club She retired after 25 years as a librarian in the Penn Manor School District.

This picturesque century farm continues as a working farm after seven generations of being tilled by Shellenbergers

Seed treatment doubles yields

GEORGETOWN, Del. — Seed treatment more than doubled some barley yields this year in demonstration plots at the University of Delaware Georgetown Substation, reports extension plant pathologist Bob Mulrooney.

Starting with seed from a field of Volbar barley harvested in June, 1979, in which 12 percent of the grain heads were infected with loose smut, the specialist compared performance of this seed under three different fungicide treatments: Vitavax 200 (carboxin plus thiram) at 4 ounces per 100 pounds of seed, Vitavax DB (carboxin) at 3 ounces per 100 pounds, and Arasan (thiram) at the rate of 1.3 ounces per bushel.

Barley was planted October 26, 1979. Stand counts were taken but no significant differences were found. The amount of loose smut in each plot was assessed by counting the number of smutted heads at flowering. Differences in this case were pronounced and related closely to yield.

Both Vitavax treatments were 100 percent smut free compared to 27.2 percent infection in the Arasan plots and 30.2 percent infection in untreated control plots.

Yield on untreated controls averaged 42 bushels an acre compared to 45.5 with Arasan, 61.3 with Vitavax DB and 85.7 bushels with Vitavax 200.

York Farm Credit holds annual meeting

York Farm Credit manager Richard Zook thanked members for their continuing support during his annual report to the lending cooperative's meeting.

CARLISLE — Over 800 members and guests of the York Farm Credit Association jammed the elegant ballroom at the Embers Restaurant for the cooperative's annual dinner meeting last Thursday evening.

H Richard Zook, manager of the York Federal Land and associate manager of Production Credit Association, told the members, "We have never before experienced a time when the money markets have fluctuated like they have during the last year and a half."

"Interest rates through the Land Bank system climbed steadily from a nine and a half percent level in June, 1979, to 12 percent in May, 1980, and then dropped a percent in July.

Production Credit's rates rose from 13 percent in January to 15 percent in April and then fell back to 12 percent in August

Zook said the Farm Credit system realizes the need to provide prompt and sufficient credit to the farming industry, and will make every effort to supply that need to insure adequate food supplies for the nation.

As of September 30, 1980, the York PCA was handling loans for 920 members, with a loan volume of over $31 million, a lending increase of 11 percent with five percent more members A 6 percent dividend from PCA was paid to stockholders last December in the amount of $11,570.70.

At the end of this year's third quarter, the Federal Land Bank was servicing 1312 members, with loans of over $77 million. The York Land Bank's volume is up 22 percent in lending and over 16 percent in membership.

Within the past year, the Association has opened a full-time branch office in Perry County, staffed by loan officer Ronald Moore and office assistant Delores Sutch.

Three Farm Credit directors were re-elected to the board for three-year terms Maynard Weary, Newville R1, the current president of the Land Bank board, was returned to the board, as well as PCA

Some big bears will be out Monday

SKYTOP — There are some mighty big bears roaming around in northeastern Pennsylvania, and if any of them are harvested during the November 24 bear hunting season, all previous records will be broken.

Game Commission personnel recently handled the biggest bear ever recorded in the state, but there's at least one more that is even larger.

The bear caught recently was making a nuisance of himself by upsetting garbage cans. Game Commission personnel trapped the bruin, and found it had been previously trapped, in 1975, in the Promised Land area of Pike County.

At that time, the bear weighed 368 pounds It was trapped and marked in a routine research operation.

In some Game Commission bear research, efforts are made to chart the course and movement of bears, but no special significance was attached to this particular bear at that time. But that wasn't the last of the bruin.

In the spring of 1977, the bear was again trapped near Skytop, Monroe County. At that time, he was tipping over garbage dumpsters in the area, so he was moved and released in the Kellogg Mountain area of Bradford County.

Bear weights are usually near their low mark in the spring of the year, and in the spring of 1977 the bear weighed 519 pounds.

The bruin obviously returned to his home area from Bradford County, and was caught again by Game Commission personnel in response to complaints about his habit of rummaging around in Lackawanna County garbage.

When caught this year, the 10-year-old bear weighed 650 pounds, the largest bear weight ever recorded in Pennsylvania. He had a chest girth, when caught, of 64 inches.

This time, a radio was attached to the bruin, and Game Commission personnel have been monitoring his movements since his most recent release.

After being trapped recently, the bruin took off for another county, and soon hooked up with another bear which all observers say is even bigger. And Game Commission personnel believe the reports, because they have dealt with the second bear before.

The second bear, 15 years old, has been trapped and marked in August, 1977. Equipment was not available then to record the second bear's weight, but the bruin had a chest girth at that time of 68 inches, four more than the present 650-pounder's measurement.

Milk Marketing continues to fight

WASHINGON, D.C. — The National Association for Milk Marketing Reform, a trade association of small dairy processors, last Friday filed a motion to intervene on a limited basis to oppose the term of the Consent Judgment proposed by the Department of Justice in settlement of its lawsuit to block the merger of H.P Hood, Inc., New England's largest dairy into Agri-Mark, the largest dairy co-op in the Area.

NAMMR's motion was filed in the United States District Court in Vermont.

The move to intervene as Amicus Curiae resulted from the Department of Justice's refusal to drop its Consent Proposal and its rejection of NAMMR's request for a hearing.

NAMMR opposes the Consent Settlement which it believes will not protect small dairies, small cooperatives and many farmers who will be forced out of business

The District Court must decide if the Consent Judgment is in the public interest.

NAMMR asserted in its motion that a hearing is necessary for the Court to receive additional evidence for is determination. NAMMR pointed out that the Response of Justice filed last week raised serious questions of protection for competitors and dairy farmers.

Parasites fight pests in stored products

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — University of Maryland Agricultural Experiment Station entomologist has been "using fire to fight fire," so to speak, in a research project aimed at controlling destructive insects.

The entomologist, Earlene Armstrong, has been studying the feasibility of using very small parasites to control insects that infest stored products such as grains, cereals, fruits, vegetables and nuts. Roughly 10 to 30 percent of the food produced in the U S each year is damaged by these pests after harvest.

Not only do pests damage or consume marketable products, but they also transmit disease-causing agents through the product they infest, contaminating far more food than they eat.

In recent decades, several methods of control have been used to suppress these stored product pests. Among these are chemicals, including fumigants, dust sprays and pesticides; applications of heat or cold to products to prevent or slow the growth of pests; and better sanitation. Another method now being looked at involves the use of biological agents, such as the parasites in Armstrong's project.

In her research, Armstrong has examined the survival of insects in stored products under varying conditions of light, temperature and humidity and is comparing their growth and developmental rates under those conditions.

She is also trying to certain the susceptibility of the stored product pests to parasitic infection and to determine the effects of small parasites on susceptible pests.

Thus far, her research has focused on the red flour bettle, although additional emphasis in later studies will be placed on the saw-toothed grain beetle, Indian meal moth, cigarette and drugstore beetles--some other pests of stored products in the Mid-Atlantic states.

While working with the red flour beetle, Armstrong altered environmental conditions and nutritional requirements to spur an increase in the parasite population, the aim being to kill the pest or at least reduce its population below economically destructive levels

She found that parasitized insects lay fewer eggs, have reduced life spans and show incomplete development to the extent that many do not complete their life cycles. Each of these factors, over a period of time, would naturally reduce the pest population.

Armstrong is now examining the changes induced in the insects by the parasite's presence, an area of research that has received little study so far

If successful, her experiments could lead to a reduction of stored product pests and the damage caused by them, meaning that less food would be lost for human consumption and that more would be available to feed the people in this country and around the world.

University of Maryland Agricutural Experience Station entomologist Earlene Armstrong examines pests and parasites before placing them under a microscope for closer study. She is studying the use of parasites to control pests that infest stored products like cereals, grains and nuts.

How to thaw turkey

YORK — Chances are that you'll buy a frozen turkey for your holiday dinner since most turkeys are sold that way A. Joan Lamberson, Extension Home Economist reminds you that thawing the bird can present a problem. Harmful bacteria which may be present on the surface of the bird, grow rapidly in a turkey that's improperly prepared for the oven

For frozen, unstuffed turkeys, it's recommended that thawing occur at refrigerated temperatures. Defrost the turkey on a tray in the refrigerator in its original wrappings Allow 24 hours for each five pounds of turkey. When the bird is pliable, take off the wrapping, remove the giblets and neck, cover with a damp towel and refrigerate until ready to roast.

If you do not have refrigerator space large enough for thawing the whole turkey, you may need to use one of the following methods. However, caution is required to assure that the surface of the bird does not become warm, thereby permitting growth of harmful bacteria.

Without opening the plastic bag, place the frozen bird in cold water for six to eight hours. Change the water frequently or place the turkey under a running tap. Never use warm or hot water Allow one-half hour thawing time for each pound of turkey. When the turkey becomes pliable, take off the plastic bag, remove the giblets and neck, cover with a damp towel and refrigerate until ready to roast.

A second alternative is to leave the turkey in its original wrappings, wrap with newspaper, and place in a heavy brown paper bag Seal the bag and place in a cool room. The newspaper and bag should insulate the turkey so that it will thaw uniformly Allow approximately one hour thawing time for each pound turkey Do not allow excessive thawing time. Due to its potential hazards, this method is not recommended.

Follow safe thawing procedures to insure a happy and safe holiday meal.

USDA proposes increase in produce licenses

LITITZ— Produce traders and the public have until November 25 to comment on a U.S. Department of Agriculture proposal to increase license fees for produce traders by $15 per year.

Produce traders are licensed by USDA's Agricultural Marketing Service under the Perishable Commodities Act, which establishes a code of good business conduct for the produce industry.

John J. Gardner, USDA official, said the new fee schedule is required because of increased operating costs. He said fees paid by licenees cover all costs of administering the program, and no tax funds are used.

Under the proposed fee schedule, a firm required to be licensed under PACA would pay an annual fee of $150 plus $50 for every branch or location above nine, up to a maximum of $1000. The current fee is $135 plus $35 for every branch or location above nine, with the same $1000 maximum

In administering the act, the Agricultural Marketing Service provides a consultation service to help buyers and sellers of fruits and vegetables make sound contracts and prevent business disputes. The act also provides for payment of damages by anyone who fails to live up to contract obligations in buying and selling these products.

The law requires all commission merchants, brokers and dealers who buy, sell or handle fresh or frozen fruits and vegetables in interstate or foreign commerce to be licensed.

The proposal was published in the November 10 Federal Register, available at local libraries. Two copies of all comments should be sent to hearing clerk, rm. 1077-S, USDA, Washington, D.C., 20250, where the comments will be available for public review.

How to decide where to market hogs

NEWARK, Del. — The pork outlook is rather uncertain right now, but whether prices go up or down, swine producers want to sell their hogs for the best possible return.

Where you sell your market hogs can make it a big difference in your final profit. The highest price quoted won't always put the most money in your pocket.

For instance, a distant packer may offer more than a local buyer, but after you've subtracted shrinkage during shipment and the cost of transportation, in some cases you may find you're better off, in terms of net profit, selling your pigs for a bit less close to home.

Before you settle on a buyer, take a look at all the figures involved, not just the price, advises University of Delaware marketing specialist Carl German.

Find out who's responsible for paying transportation costs, and where pigs will be weighed Get price quotes from all the packers you're willing to ship to. Get quotes, too, on the cost of transportation from shippers, or compute your own cost if you'll do the hauling.

Note those packers and markets who pay shipping themselves And don't forget to consider shrinkage due to shipping--especially over long distance.

This may seem rather complicated, but it really just takes a few phone calls and some simple arithmetic, says the economist.

To help swine producers do this, he has put together a circular describing the calculations involved, using practical examples. To obtain a free copy write: Mail Room, Agricultural Hall, University of Delaware, Newark, DE 19711. Ask for the extension circular on "Where to Sell Market Hogs."

Dairy farmer leaves strange legacy

BY JANE BRESEE
Staff Correspondent

A large model of a sailing ship is a strange legacy for a dairy farmer to leave the world. This is the story as far as it can be pieced together.

Karl Markert, the creator of the ship model, was born in 1905 in Weinsberg, West Germany He worked as a blacksmith in Germany and came to the United States in 1928 where he was employed by a bus company on Long Island.

As the story goes - he saw a picture of a German sailing ship on a postcard, probably one sent to him from Germany, and for some reason the picture inspired him to make a small replica of the ship. Perhaps he had always dreamed of being a sailor and was captivated by the grace and beauty of sailing ships; perhaps he was just making a fancy cabinet for a radio which in those days was quite a novelty; or maybe he was homesick and needed something to take up his time.

Karl made detailed blueprints and afterward built the model in his spare time in the basement of a friend's house. It took him three years to complete it.

The model ship is not a small work of art. It is constructed from strips of brass layered and shaped to form the hull. There are three tall masts, holding 17 copper rectangular sails and 4 triangular lateen sails, also copper. The model measures 4 by 6 feet from stem to stern.

The sailing ship is perfect in every detail right down to the one inch door on the deck house which opens and closes on tiny hinges. Miniature life boats, each supplies with diminutive oars, are hunt at intervals along the deck.

The rigging is strung exactly as a real ship would be, but wires are used instead of rope, and fastened with little pulleys to the railings and deck. It is a maze of detail-even to the "rope" ladders leading to the top of each mast

As an added whimsey, Mr Markert installed a radio (which no longer works) under the deck, and lights inside the hull to shine through the real portholes

He named her the El-Ba Rose

Markert's great-niece, Karen Laman, marvels at the tiny lifeboat on the ship model at her home. Her mother, Mary Ann Laman, remembers admiring the ship as a child when she visited the Markerts at their farm.

Preoccupied with making the model ship, young Markert must have survived the depression in the early 30's on Long Island. During that decade he met a girl, also a German immigrant, and married her.

In the early 1940 s, the young couple moved from the city to a dairy farm near Greenwich, New York, near Sarasota Why they moved is a question no one can answer: perhaps there was no opportunity for advancement where he worked, maybe he had always dreamed of being a farmer and was sick of city living, or he might have become a farmer to escape the draft for the second World War He couldn't have been blamed for that as for a soldier he would have been cast an an enemy to his own relatives and friends in Germany

The niece of Mrs Markert, Mary Ann Laman of Waverly, New York, who supplied this information, visited the farm when she was small

It was a small dairy farm, she remembers, and remote - the mailbox was a mile away from the house Her uncle loved horses and had a couple of riding horses in addition to his working team. Of course, he shod them himself, having been as blacksmith in Germany He must have also loved German Shepherd dogs, for two are evident in one of the snapshots saved by his sister-in-law, Mary Ann's mother.

Mary Ann belives her aunt and uncle never took a vacation away from the farm nor ever went back to visit Germany. They lived on the farm for over 30 years until one day in 1974 when Mr. Markert went out with the dogs to get the cows, the dogs came back without him. He died as he would have wanted - doing his regular chores.

Soon after that, Mrs. Markert gave the ship model to Mary Ann, and a few years later, Mrs Markert died also

The Markerts had no children of their own They left practically nothing except the ship model, the plans for it, and some snapshots The farm was sold and apparently not even a horseshoe was saved as a remembrance.

There is no trace of any other work of art Mr. Markert might have created Surely he must have gone about his farming with the same meticulous attention to detail exhibited in making the ship, but it is not remembered or recorded.

Now the ship is in the huge Victorian home of Don and Mary Ann Laman at 313 Chemung Street in Waverly, New York The Laman s wish it could be seen by many more people in order to be fully appreciated.

The Laman's themselves value antiques, Don has a part time business refinishing and selling antique furniture The old carriage house out back is full of furniture beautifully restored

Upstairs in the Laman s lovely old home, the model sailing ship, the El-Ba Rose, rests, a silent monument to a clever young man's forgotten dream. What a unique legacy to leave the world!

The young Karl Markert, proud of his recent accomplishment stands happily beside the sailing ship model which took him three years to build.

Karl Markert, now older, and dressed in working clothes, is seated proudly astride his prize horse. His farm buildings are in the background.

Ladies Have You Heard?

AVOID THE CHRISTMAS CRUNCH

The Christmas crunch hits many families as they try to fit special holiday activities into an already busy daily round of household demands. Many a frazzled parent has been thrown into a state of complete disorganization when a young son or daughter announces a special Christmas program at school - that he or she needs a costume, and some cookies - and Mom and Dad have got to be there!

One way to turn your household havoc into a setting where exciting extras are happening is through the use of family time plans.

A time plan can be as simple or as detailed as you desire. A simple list of jobs to be done as time is available is one approach, but this is probably not sufficient to guide a family through peak periods A more detailed time plan includes a time sequence without definite time limits. A schedule brings in both sequences and approximate amount of time on different activities.

Families can develop their own schedules by answering four basic questions What are the "extras" we must include? What are the "extras" we would like to include? What are the "usuals" that must be continued? What are the "usuals" that can be postponed or even eliminated entirely?

After you and your family have answered these questions, you can begin to develop a special holiday time plan. This is a venture for the entire family Each family member needs to know what the other members have on their minds and how important these things are to them. With this knowledge, you can establish priorities that everyone understands. Had the parents known how important the school Christmas program was to their daughter they could have planned ahead for the costume and cookies - and they could have attended the program in an "unfrazzled" state.

You can turn the Christmas crunch into a time of exciting extras by thinking ahead and developing a time schedule with your whole family taking part

OLD LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES OFTEN VALID

That yellowed and tattered life insurance policy you found among your great uncle's papers may be worth more than the paper it's printed on.

You should contact the insurance company that issued the policy, no matter how old it is If you are the beneficiary and everything is in order, you are entitled to the full value of the policy

You may also be eligible for interest on the policy for up to 20 years if the insurance company can't show that it made a "reasonable" effort to find you.

In most cases, companies make regular and often elaborate efforts to locate missing beneficiaries If companies don't find them within a certain period of time, depending on state laws and ranging from three to seven years, the money goes to the state under the doctrine of "escheat" - which simply means the state is entitled to unclaimed property.

Still, if you show proof that the money belongs to you and take proper identification and proof of the policyholder's death, the insurance company will either pay you directly or arrange for the state to make the payment.

Even after 20 years, when the statue of limitations is in effect and the companies are no longer legally obligated to pay, most will still make payments on the policy

Some of the reasons that people are unaware of insurance money that is due them include

* Families may never have known the deceased had a policy.
* Paid up annuities sometimes are forgotten
* Beneficiaries who don't know they are beneficiaries drop out of sight.
* Policies that families think had lapsed frequently have built-in protection against lapsing and therefore are usually worth something even after payments have stopped

PFA sets women's program

HERSHEY — Farm women attending the 30th Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association will be participating in a leadership workshop conducted by Kenneth Cheatham, Director of Local Government Affairs, Rural Health and Safety for the American Farm Bureau Federation

Farmer leaders and voting delegates from PFA's 54 county associations are attending the convention at the Hershey Motor Lodge, Hershey, November 23 to 26 to adopt policies on statewide issues affecting agriculture and to select organization leaders.

Cheatham will be the guest speaker at the annual meeting's Women's Conference being held Tuesday morning.

Cheatham, who helps state farm bureaus on local government issues including taxes, rural development, health, education and crime, will attempt to further women's participation in the problem solving role of PFA and American Farm Bureau.

Women honored at Grange meeting

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia. — Hundreds of Grange members from all across the country attended a banquet at the Stouffer's Five Seasons Hotel to honor the achievements of Grange women during the past year. The Grange is holding its 114th annual session in Cedar Rapids this week.

Mrs Mary Buffington of Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, Director of Women's Activities, described the results of this year's participation in women's activities as "overwhelming." Nearly a quarter of a million women belong to the Grange. It has long been known as the first organization in the country to give women an equal vote with men, when it was first organized in 1867.

Mrs Marie Thelen of St. Johns, Michigan, was selected State Grange Director of the Year. Mrs Thelen is also a member of the National Grange's Women's Activities Advisory Committee

Mrs. Leslie Rivard, Gaines, Michigan, took Best of Show honors in the National Grange sewing contest and was awarded $1000 plus additional prizes from co-sponsors of the contest.

Grand Award winners of the needlework contest were Alice Briggs, Milford, New Hampshire, Irene Lewerer, Stillwater, Minnesota, and Mrs. C.W. Davis Jr., West Chester, Pennsylvania.

National winners of the stuffed toy contest were Beth Pease, Manlius, New York, Kim Hulsey, New Matamoras, Ohio, Raymond Comstock, S. Meriden, Connecticut, and Karla Frock, Boulder, Colorado.

Ocean Spray Cranberries, Inc. recognized Mrs. Helen Lacina of Grinnell, Iowa, as Grand Prize Winner in their national cranberry recipe contest.

Mrs. Norma Jean King of Seymour, Tennessee, took top honors in the sewing machine craft and home decoration contest and was awarded a trip for two to Switzerland by the White Sewing Machine Company.

Thanksgiving Favorites

Benjamin Franklin wanted the turkey to be the national bird, and while the bald eagle was selected over his choice, old Ben would feel right at home this month as Americans settle down to a Thanksgiving turkey dinner

The Food and Nutrition Division of the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture notes that America's favorite feast food, turkey, is in good supply this month According to James J Gallen, Jr , chief of the Food and Nutrition Division, turkey is relatively inexpensive when compared to other meats

"Current pricing for turkey ranges from 95 cents per pound to $1 09 per pound for a large bird of 16 to 20 pounds," he said "Prices for turkey may drop slightly as we approach Thanksgiving, although the cost will be slightly higher than last year "

Gallen said that turkey has a lot more going for it than just its price "A whole roast turkey has less than half the fat and one-third the saturated fat of lean ground beef," he said It ranks higher in protein than any other cooked meat and is one of the lowest in calories (205 for 3 1/2 ounce serving)

Turkey also supplies generous amounts of the B-vitamins, riboflavin and niacin These vitamins are important in the proper functioning of nerves, appetite, good digestion and healthy skin Also, because of its high protein and low fat content, turkey is valuable in menus for diabetics, heart patients, overweight patients, overweight people and those on high protein diets

A tip for buying turkey is to allow 3/4 to 1 pound per serving Thus if you plan to entertain 12 people, use a 12 pound turkey (ready-to-cook weight) Remember to thaw turkey slowly If you thaw at room temperature, allow one hour per pound If you thaw in the refrigerator, allow one to three days And last, never freeze an uncooked, stuffed turkey or a roast, stuffed turkey You can however, freeze a coooked turkey if properly wrapped

Now try the delicious roast turkey and the various other Thanksgiving favorites We have included a nutritious and economical left-over idea called Turkey Shortcake This recipe is published by the Food and Nutrition Division

One of the favorite vegetables on American tables is corn; not only in summer when we feast on sweet corn on the cob, but all year 'round. There is no better example of this than with the Pilgrims; history assures us that corn was a basic part of the first Thanksgiving and that the early settlers relied heavily on corn for survival.

Roast Turkey

Rinse bird with cold water and drain

If stuffing is used, fill wishbone area lightly and fasten skin to back with skewer Than fill cavity lightly Add one cup stuffing for each pound of ready-to-cook weight Fold wing tips onto back Push drumsticks under band of skin at tail, if present or tie them to tail

Place turkey on rack in shallow roasting pan, breast side up Brush skin with fat If a roast meat thermometer is used, insert it so that bulb is in center of inside thigh muscle or thickest part of breast meat. Be sure bulb doesn't touch bone. Do not cover or add water.

Place turkey in oven at 325 degrees When turkey is two thirds done, cut cord or band of skin at drumsticks

Roasting times, for best results, are as follows 6 to 8 pounds, 3 to 3 1/2 hours, 8 to 12 pounds, 3 1/2 to 4 1/2 hours, 12 to 16 pounds, 4 1/2 to 5 1/2 hours, 16 to 20, 5 1/2 to 6 1/2 hours, 20 to 24, 6 1/2 to 7 1/2 hours

Mrs. Carl Bacon, Felton

In answer to Mrs. Ebersol's request for velveeta cheese recipe.

2 1/2 gal. sour milk
Let stand till thick Scald till hot to hold your hand in it
Then pour into cheese cloth
Let hand till curds are dry, over night or 12 hours Add 1/2 cup butter Put in double boiler Add 1/2 cups sour cream and two beaten eggs and melt Add one tablespoon salt Mix well, pour into butter pans Let stand till completely cold

Mrs. Adam Miller, Hartly, Dl.

In response to Joan McGuigan's request for cooked dumplings

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 tablespoons butter

Mix above together, then beat an egg into an 8 ounce cup. Fill with water, add this to first mixture, use enough flour to roll dough, like pie dough, cut into squares, place apple sprinkled with sugar in center of each square and seal, steam 30 minutes Do not lift lid until done Makes 4 or 5 dumplings.

My mother-in-law used a big boiler, and put a cake pan upside down in kettle; don't cover pan with water, the steam will cook them

Don't have burner too high, so water doesn't evaporate after it starts cooking or it will get dry

Mrs. William Schlicher, Zionsville

Thanksgiving Oh, so much is rolled up into the meaning of that lone word

How fitting it is that we, like the Pilgrims and countless cultures back through the history of mankind, pause to express our gratitude for the bountiful harvests that feed the land.

For no land has evern been blessed like this one.

At the heart of that blessing is our abundant and matchless variety of food

And, while there are voices critical of the way America produces her bounty, without the breakthroughs of science and technology, those cries would be silenced.

They'd be too busy hunting food for the table.

So, for hybrid corn and wheat and rice, we give thanks. With them, we've multiplied over and over the yields from our dimishing acres of vanishing farmland, enabling us to produce more from less.

For fertilizers and fungicides, herbicides and pesticides, we give thanks. Carefully tested and applied under strict controls, chemical aids have enabled us to conquer the ravages of disease, insects and marginal or worn-out farmlands. In countries lacking such scientific aids, crop failures, pestilence and famine are still all too familiar.

For motors and milk tanks, combines and choppers, cotton gins, fruit harvesters and potato diggers, we give thanks. Who among us really wants to return to the back-breaking days of piling corn day after day into stacked shocks, or unloading mountainous wagon loads of wheat stalks, forkful by aching forkful, into the roaring, clanging, smoking innards of a stream thresher?

For processing and preservatives that kill botulism and bacteria, for vaccines that keep our livestock healthy, for sanitation codes and refrigerated trucks we give thanks.

Take time this week to pause and say "Thanks" to the Creator who's blessed us with the resources and the knowledge to bring forth sustenance for ourselves and a hungry world.

Thanksgiving. That's what it s all about

Dairy Mineral Program

While most minerals are only needed in a small level in a dairy feed, they are nevertheless very important in maintaining good milk production and optimal herd health.

Particular attention needs to be paid to the mineral nutrition of dairy cows because the forages that they consume vary widely in mineral content.

For this reason, the Pennfield Mineral Program is composed of three different formulas which are designed to complement the forage feeding programs on the farm. These minerals can be fed free choice, used in complete rations or top dressed on the bunk.

Fat Booster Pack is helpful in milk fat depression problems commonly found in the summer and also for cows on low fiber roughages.

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

As winter approaches and the blustery winds blow stronger we try to spend all the pleasant sunny days outdoors And so, one morning last week I packed a big lunch and my husband and I set out to hunt turkey He with a gun and me with a camera

We drove miles over bumpy, stony roads into a new area and finally found a parking space on a dead-end road He headed into the woods where he eventually saw three turkeys scratching merrily away but they didn't come close enough to shoot as he wore a red coat and they are not color blind as deer are

I decided to continue walking to the end of the narrow road It beckoned me to continue and see what lay around the next bend and beyond the next hill but there seemed to be no end.

It was a bit unnerving as the silence was broken by a ruffed grouse which rose up and flew noisly away from the edge of the woods For hour I didn't see another person walking in the forest

When I stopped to poke my foot into a very large ant hill, I spied a deer running across the road ahead of me Then another followed and I realized that my camera should be used but until I got my gloves off and focused it the third deer had lightly leaped into the woods and sped away

Finally I sat down on a log and read the Lancaster Farming which I'd been carrying all the way as I don't find time to read the thick newspaper at home Then I had to make the decision to return to the car without finding the end of the road On the return trip I picked up red and yellow maple leaves and some acorns

When Allen measured the distance that I'd walked with the car odometer it was only five miles but it seemed like more

As we drove home, we saw several more deer and so I changed my mind about not getting a hunting license this year and bought one You see, our son will be in Chicago on opening day of deer season and I don't want Allen to go hunting alone

Home Economists receive honors

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — Three University of Maryland field faculty members have received recent honors from national and state professional organizations.

They are Miss Julia A. Lockard of Bel Air (Harford county), Mrs. Kathryn K. Jenkins of Middletown (Frederick county) and Mrs. Constance H. Pergerson of Glen Burnie (Anne Arundel county). All are Extension home economics agents.

Miss Lockard and Mrs Jenkins were honored on November 6 at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., during the forty-sixth annual meeting of the National Association of Extension Home Economists.

Mrs. Pergerson received recognition on Oct. 23 at McHenry (Garrett County) during the annual fall meeting of the Maryland Association of Extension Home Economists.

A native of Uniontown (Carroll County), Julia A. Lockard is this year's Maryland winner of the Distinguished Service Award from the National Association of Extension Home Economists.

The honor is presented annually in recognition of professional achievement, leadership and service in county Extension home economics programs.

Miss Lockard has been an Extension home economics agent in Baltimore county since January 1980. She previously worked for 22 years in neighboring Harford county, both as a home economics agent and as a 4-H youth agent

Her recognition was based in large part on the success of a ' Parents and Children'' organization which she helped to establish in Harford county This parent education group was involved in sponsorship of countywide workshops at which more than 400 mothers and fathers received training

In addition, Miss Lockard conducted 67 special interest classes, seminars and workshops involving more than 3,000 persons during the past year in both Harford and Baltimore counties.

In 1973 she was presented the ''outstanding youth worker award'' by the Maryland Association of Extension 4-H Agents.

Mrs. Kathryn K. Jenkins of Middletown won the Florence Hall award, presented to six persons throughout the nation each year by the National Association of Extension Home Economists.

The award is presented for outstanding programs conducted by NAEHE members who have been alert in recognizing new concerns and interests of families and have involved people in planning and carrying out such programs.

Mrs. Jenkins was recognized for her Extension education programs in mental health. Singled out for special mention was the ''Way Station,'' a resocialization center for released mental patients which she helped to establish in 1978. The center assists outpatients in adjusting to the community by teaching them skills.

Born at Hagerstown (Washington county), Mrs Jenkins grew up in nearby Jefferson county, W Va. She has been a county Extension home economics agent at Frederick since 1965 and county chairperson for the University of Maryland's Cooperative Extension Service during the past three years.

Last year she won the Distinguished Service Award from the NAEHE.

Mrs Constance H. Pergerson of Glen Burnie has been named as the state's outstanding Extension home economics agent with four to seven years of professional experience.

A native of Portsmouth, Va., she has been an Extension home economics agent in Anne Arundel county since 1975.

Mrs. Pergerson is county supervisor for the Expanded Food and Nutrition Education Program of the U.S Department of Agriculture. She is also the Extension resource person for food and nutrition education work with all audiences in the county.

Her newsletter reaches 500 persons in the county's hard-to-reach areas of low-income housing complexes. She also works with senior citizens groups. Her weekly newspaper column of ''best buying tips'' reaches an estimated 17,000 persons. She also makes daily telephone recordings with timely nutrition information

Mrs. Pergerson is president-elect of the Maryland Dietetic Association, and she serves on several statewide professional home economics committees. She has appeared many times on local television shows. In some of these appearances, she uses a puppet show which she designed as a symbol for the state dietetic association.

Ohio chapter wins nat'l BOAC award

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Preserving the history of the 1800's farm life by constructing an Agricultural Heritage Farmstead has earned the Monroeville, Ohio, Chapter of the Future Farmers of America the national FFA Building Our American Communities (BOAC) award.

The chapter representatives received the National BOAC Citation, $200 and a plaque.

Working with the Huron County Fair Board and Heritage Society, the Monroeville FFA members moved and reassembled a 32 x 48 foot barn and a corncrib at the fairgrounds. They used the same construction techniques as the original builders did more thant 100 years ago by assembling handhewn beams, roofing the barn with cedar shingles and cutting poplar siding with a steam-powered mill. The barn is now used for senior citizen activities and square dances. A farmhouse is being refurnished, and future buildings will complete the farmstead.

The Monroeville FFA members also built an octagon bandstand, planted trees and ornamentals and built picnic tables for a park To aid their vocational agriculture classroom instruction, they constructed a greenhouse and landscaped the adjacent courtyard.

Three other FFA chapters were national finalists in the BOAC program this year. Franklin Senior High, Louisiana, FFA members built a school classroom, baseball field and nature trail. Project TIMBER–Training to Improve the Most Beneficial Environmental Resource–was the title of the Elma, Washington, Chapter's reforestation project Denmark, Wisconsin, FFA members conducted community safety programs, tagged trees, raised pheasants for release and improved the school grounds.

Grangers outline targets for new farm policy

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia. — National Grange delegates meeting in Iowa last week at their annual convention outlined specific recommendations in changes they feel are needed in a new farm program

The farm leaders said the Secretary of Agriculture should have the authority to make additional commodities eligible for loans, purchases, target prices, and reserve programs. A system should be established within farm programs to adjust price supports, loans and target prices in relationship to any rapid increase in the cost of production.

They said they feel the benefits of farm programs should be directed to farmers most in need of economic assistance and would prefer to lessen expensive federal farm programs and rely more on the market place for farm income.

During the next few months, the Grange will be encouraging new legislation which would place increased emphasis on agricultural exports to Third World Countries through a revolving export credit program, market development, and more access to foreign markets. They question the value of bilateral trade agreements.

A new farm program should allow flexibility to meet the needs of mixed livestock and grain farmers and provide an exemption from production control programs to small farmers.

The Grange suppports the farmer-held reserve program, on-farm storage facility loan program, set-asides, paid diversions and a modified normal crop acreage requirement

Since demand for dairy products has been on a decline and imitation products are becoming a threat to the dairy industry, the Grange supports the referendum concept for dairy farmers to raise funds for advertising research and promotion and the new "real seal" program. The Grange opposes any changes in the regulation of reconstituted milk

The original purpose of the Farmers Home Administration was to assist farmers with financial problems Today, according to delegates attending the Grange Convention, this service has extended itself to include not only farm and rural housing financing, but also non-rural housing, municipal loans and recreational loans

Grange delegates are urging the return of FmHA to its original purpose of making low interest loans to eligible farmers and assisting young farmers who want to enter farming The Grange is also asking that the agency be adequately staffed with personnel who have farm experience and agricultural training, and that all other business be transferred to another agency within USDA.

In other action, the Grange expressed opposition to any action that would modify the Capper-Volstead Act and in any way, jeopardize the farmers' right to organize and maintain cooperatives for the purpose of processing and marketing their products.

They further opposed a check-list approach in monitoring co-ops for undue price enhancement or any attempt to develop broad definitions or parallels with non-agricultural situations which would ignore the reality and individuality of various markets

The National Grange adopted resolutions calling for import quotas on dairy products to provide economic stability for both producers and processors.

The Grange also said imported dairy products should be subjected to the same rigid sanitation standards imposed for all U S dairy products.

The Grange endorsed quota systems to control amounts of sugar, casein, and mushrooms that are being imported.

With an unstable world food picture and a growing number of impoverished people, the National Grange passed resolutions in support of an International Food Reserve Program.

The Grange is calling for support of all nations in establishing a formal international food reserve, nationally held, to insure projected world food needs The Grange said all nations should contribute support for research and education which would help food deficit areas meet the needs of their people. The program should include ways to stimulate food production and increase capabilities of those areas to import, store and efficiently distribute the food.

The program should also encourage international cooperation and multilateral solutions to problems affecting food production and distribution, so that producers will be assured of adequate returns and stable markets.

Modern agriculture is greatly benefited by proper use of chemicals, Grangers said. They challenged the Environmental Protection Agency in its efforts to prevent the use of specific chemicals based on evidence obtained from feeding excessive doses of chemicals to animals.

The Grange opposes the withdrawal of chemicals because of evidence secured by these methods.

Grange delegates, representing 470,000 members from 37 states, are calling for reasonable testing procedures which would be in line with practical consumption expected from human use of the product

They have also asked that EPA base line its decisions on facts backed by adequate research governing crop production chemicals and prepare economic impact statements taking into consideration economic hardships placed on farmers.

they endorsed a national defense policy of peace through strength. The farm leaders expressed opposition to any arms control agreement which would in any way jeopardize the security of the U.S. or any of its allies, or lock the U.S. into Courter will be on the program with other extension specialists from the University of Maryland and farmers from the Eastern Shore. The program will center on fruit and vegetables production for the Delmarva area. Growers interested in fruit and vegetables production and marketing are invited to attend.

Donald Quidas, Preston, Md., will discuss Tailgating, a form of marketing fresh vegetables.

Chris Walsh, Department of Horticulture, University of Maryland will address the topic "Peaches and Delmarva"

The registration desk will open at 9 A.M Several companies will be exhibiting, and you are welcome to come early and view their various products.

Ample time has been allowed in the program for your return from lunch in the Delmar area

a position of military inferiority.

The Grange favors cancelling all U.S aid and supplies to countries that would take, hold or kill American citizens, refuse to recognize international law, or allow the takover of any U.S. property. They support President Carter's actions restricting entrance of Iranian citizens into the U.S., breaking diplomatic relations and imposing sanctions to hasten release of the hostages now held in Iran.

Grangers passed resolutions urging increased utilization and development of alternate sources of fuel.

The Grange strongly endorse greater use of coal, a free market for petroleum and gas and independent development of collecting solar energy. They recommend more research, grants and loans to expand the use of agricultural products and waste in the production of alcohol fuels.

In the area of environment, the Grange is opposed to threats by the Environmental Protection Agency to withhold funds to states to force auto emission checks. Instead, the Grange proposes that Congress determine state compliance with the Clean Air Act by statute and not by regulations.

Citing agricultural dependence on crude oil, the Grange recommends a stand-by fuel allocation program designed to maintain adequate fuel supplies and making an agriculture fuel priority second only to emergency services.

Farmers asked to comment on reconstituted milk

WASHINGTON, D C. — Dairy farmers, consumers and milk handlers - and anyone else who wants to - may comment until January 2 on a U.S. Department of Agriculture impact statement concerning a petition to change the pricing of reconstituted milk under all federal milk marketing orders.

P.R. Smith, USDA assistant secretary for marketing and transportation, said the petition - submitted by the Community Nutrition Institute, a processor and three individual consumers - asks for a public hearing to consider removing commercially reconstituted milk from the Class I pricing provisions of milk orders

Reconstituted milk can be made by combining nonfat dry milk and butterfat with water Currently, all milk products used for fluid consumption are priced at the Class I level, the highest-priced class under federal milk orders.

Smith said that, in response to the petition, USDA had asked for public comments on whether a hearing should be held. At the same time, Smith initiated a study to determine the potential impact of the proposal on dairy farmers, consumers and milk handlers.

He said the preliminary impact study does not recommend whether a hearing should be held.

Through this current comment procedure, the public will have an opportunity to evaluate the impact statement and to provide USDA with coments within 45 days on the analysis. Also, the public is invited to submit any additional proposals that might be appropriate, considering the possible economic impacts of the proposal.

Smith said this is in keeping with administration policy to provide for increased public participation in USDA's decision-making process.

Comments should be sent to the deputy administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, 3069-S., USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

The impact study was published in the November 17 Federal Regiseter Copies of the study will be mailed to known interested parties as soon as they become available. Copies also may be obtained from the market administrator for each order or from the dairy division, AMS, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

State ranks fourth nationally in poultry

MIDDLEBURG — Bankers come to Pennsylvania to invest in the poultry business for some of the following reasons.

Middleburg, (in the central part of the State) is only 300 miles from 70 million consumers, which is a one day, one way truck haul for Pennsylvania farmers.

Pennsylvania has over one million acres of soil which can use manure, with little commercial fertilizer, to grow corn or other feed grains

This state also has several hundred people each year who have interest in producing, processing or marketing poultry products.

Pennsylvania has ranked in the top ten poultry production states for 50 years, therefore some of our people are third generation poultrymen.

The poultry industry is the most diverse industry in the Nation. Pennsylvania's poultry industry has $500,000 capital flow.

Two thousand commercial poultrymen and 18,000 backyard farmers in Pennsylvania grow and process 126,000,000 broilers, 17 million layers (pullets), five million turkeys, two million roasters, one million game birds, one million breeders for broilers, layers, turkeys, roasters, capons and others, 500,000 rabbits, 200,000 capons, 100,000 waterfowl, and 50,000 fancy poultry for show purposes.

In addition to this, poultry extension services owners of 400,000 miscellaneous birds like guineas, pet birds, lab birds, ornamental birds and pigeons.

Berks Farmers president talks about ag exports

BLANDON — With a record $40 billion in agricultural exports this year, America's farmers will just about cut the total U.S. trade deficit in half, John K. Kooker, Jr., said.

In commenting on this vital issue this week, Berks County Farmers' Association President Kooker said the farm trade surplus of about $22 billion will cut the projected total U.S. trade deficit from $45 billion to an estimated $23 billion.

"Agricultural trade surplus is the largest single factor in keeping what strength remains in the American dollar,", Kooker said

The farm leader pointed out that there are now 10 nations that buy more than $1 billion worth of agricultural commodities from the U.S. each year

Japan heads the list, buying more than $5 billion worth of farm products annually Two billion dollar customers for American agricultural products include the Netherlands and USSR with both Mexico and Mainland China expected in the $2 billion bracket this year

One billion dollar customers for American farm production include West Germany, United Kingdom, South Korea, Taiwan and Canada.

Referring to the concerns by our farmers of the abuses in imported agricultural items such as mushrooms and fresh vegetables at prices considered less than fair value, Kooker said the association will continue to review the situation.

"There is a world of difference between outright dumping of commodities versus the clean competition of imports under rules we all agree to follow through the trade negotiation process," Kooker said.

Prizes for the judging contest were donated by: Atlantic Breeders; C.V. Co-op; Donald Koons, A.B.S., Chambersburg Farm Service, Melrose; and Sire Power.

Refreshments were served after the adjournment of the meeting.

Hersheys restore original family homestead

KINZERS — The agricultural roots of the Hershey family go back a long way in the Kinzers area of eastern Lancaster County

Ken and Joanne Hershey mark the seventh generation to work the farm whose continuous family operation dates back to 1792.

There are plenty of Hershey landmarks that serve as guideposts to the dairy farm It's located along Hershey Church Road immediataly across from the Hershey Mennonite Church.

"The land was originally purchased from a William Morrison, of New Hampshire, by Jacob Hershey, who moved to Lancaster County from Derry Township in Dauphin County," Ken Hershey explained

The original purchase totaled 218 acres, which was later divided into three farms for the sons of Jacob Our farm was part of this original purchase."

And there are some other Hershey ties between the Kinzers area and Dauphin County Milton Hershey, who went on to pursue quite a career in the field of candy manufacturing, was born on one of the original neighboring farms. Also, he originally worked in a print shop nearby before running the owner's hat through a press and moving on to launch his career first in Lancaster and then in the town that bears his name.

The family came close to losing the farm back in 1887 when it was up for sale at public auction

The farm had been passed on to a Margaret Hershey and when her husband, Daniel Denlinger, died, it was put up for auction.

But the family ties were retained when it was purchased by Peter Hershey, a younger brother who had been a minor at the time his

Several Farm Show deadlines approaching

HARRISBURG — While the livestock and dairy cattle entries for the 1981 Farm Show have been finalized, a number of other deadlines for entries are coming up.

The deadlines for entries in dairy cattle, beef cattle, horses, sheep, swine and junior animals have now passed, many deadlines for entry into special events and farm product competition remain open.

The early (Nov. 6) deadline on entries for livestock and dairy cattle was essential to the Farm Show staff in planning the arrangement of housing for the animals. The sheer numbers of entries in these classes, along with the space required to properly house them, makes it virtually impossible to lengthen the entry period beyond early November, the commission said.

The remaining entry deadlines as follows.

Dec. 1: turkeys; open and junior class capons, broilers and roaster chickens; safe tractor driving contest.

Dec. 10: junior sheep blocking and grooming; producer-dealer quality class eggs.

Jan. 1: 4-H club potato grading.

Jan. 10: wool; corn; small grains; tobacco; potatoes; fruits; edible nuts; vegetables; maple syrup products; individual apiary products; 4-H entomology club exhibits, home economics entries.

Jan. 11: dressed turkeys; eggs; junior egg class, Christmas trees.

PARADISE — December 7, 1941

Many people remember that date for obvious reasons.

But Noah and Marian Denlinger, of R2 Paradise, recall that infamous date in history for a more personal reason

Among the Century Farms honorees Thursday, the Denlingers, in looking back on their years on the farm, recalled that date because it brought back memories of one of the most feared experiences on a farm – a barn fire.

"It happened early that Sunday morning," Denlinger recalled

"I got awake and saw the shadows of tree limbs on the bedroom wall, reflected there from the light of the fire."

The Denlingers lost 29 head of dairy stock, along with the barn and other contents

It's just one of the recollections the now retired couple have of the farm that has been in the Denlinger family for just over a century and a half.

Their son, Lewis, is now the sixth generation of continuous family operation of the farm.

The lengthy family affiliation with the land began back in 1830 when John Denlinger, Noah's great great grandfather, bought a 200-acre tract of land along the then Lancaster Turnpike The present farm of 70 acres is included in this original tract.

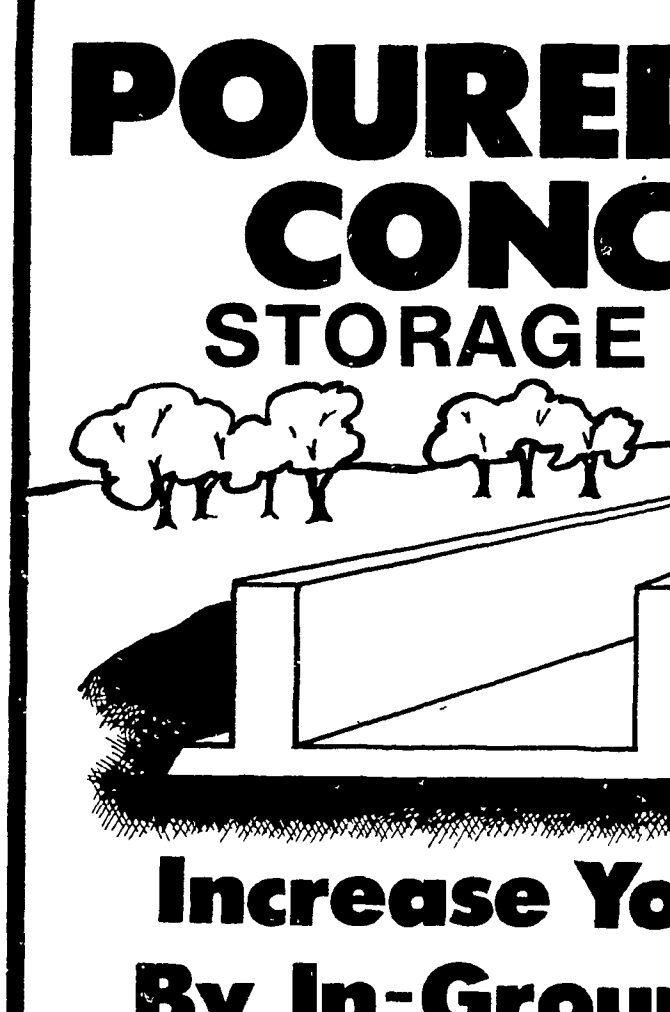
Up until about a year ago, it had been operated as a dairy farm. Now, it is essentially a steer feeding operation, with 95 head and still about 30 dairy heifers.

The elder Denlingers also have many other memories of their many decades on the farm.

They recall remodeling the house in 1965, removing the upper story and converting the brick structure into a ranch-type home.

But nothing sticks in the mind of a farmer more than a fire of unknown origin that takes its toll of livestock and barn.

Particularly, when it happened on a day as easily recalled as December 7, 1941



Old deeds dating back more than a century and a half are examined by Noah and Marian Denlinger, of R2 Paradise.

Brother, sister continue family's farming tradition

STRASBURG — It hasn't been easy for the Bishops to reach the century mark on the family farm in Strasburg Township.

But George Bishop and his sister, Harriet B. Herr, have passed the 100-year level of ownership as the third generation on the farm.

"We bought the farm from the estate in 1964," Bishop explained.

"It was just as tough back then to get a mortgage as it is now We had to go to Berks County to get financing."

But their persistence to keep the farm in the family name paid off as they were among those honored Thursday night.

The farm was bought in March, 1878, by William Steacy from a Martin Herr. Steacy lived in the well-known sandstone house in Strasburg Borough and also originally owned the land on which the Historic Strasburg now stands.

A bachelor, Steacy, died that same year and the farm moved to his nephew, William Bishop, grandfather of the present owners.

William Bishop had come to Lancaster County from Snowhill, Md. to escape the Civil War. His father had been a Methodist minister, serving in both Philadelphia and Columbia.

George Bishop has lived his entire 66 years on the farm His sister Harriet Herr returned to the farm in 1959.

Harriet is a retired school teacher with 20 years service in Pennsylvania and 14 in Newark, Del. She was an elementary teacher in Donegal, Strasburg Township and Paradise, retiring in 1973.

Totaling some 75 acres, the Bishop farm has been a diversified operation over the years. George recalls hand-milking up to 1959, operating a butter and egg route and raising hogs and cattle.

Presently, Bishop feeds cattle to about 600 pounds before they are finished elsewhere Some 300 ducks keep them quite busy, particularly at this time of the year. Bishop also has raised hunting dogs for about the past half-century.

Brother and sister are continuing a family farming tradition started over a century ago by grandfather William Bishop, who served for some 50 years as a township school director and as a road viewer for Lancaster County.

Refton founded on Herr farmland

REFTON — When the Rev. Christian Herr, Jr bought his farm in 1810, he probably had little idea that a town would be founded on it. But in 1877, Refton was built on land belonging to the Herr family.

Daniel Herr, founder of Refton, bought the farm from Christian Herr in 1814 and built the still-standing stone farm house. Beside this house stands the barn which was built in 1774

The farm, passed from generation to generation for 170 years, has slowly decreased in size. Refton took quite a sizable piece of land along with Route 222 which cuts through the center of the original deeded plot leaving only 82 acres today

The farm is now owned by Martha Herr, wife of the late Maurice Herr who purchased the farm in 1950. Maurice is the great, great grandson of Daniel Herr.

The farm is operated by Kenneth Meck, a neighboring farmer, who grows corn and alfalfa on its land.

The barn remains unused except for storage of equipment and tools. However, the tobacco shed is rented by Lancaster Leaf, according to Mrs. Herr.

She also reported proudly that limestone from the farm was used to build the Millersville State Normal School.

The Herr's hope to continue to keep the farm in the Herr name, however Mrs Herr seems doubtful as she says her two sons are a veterinarian and a dentist

"My daughter married Donald Graybill who is a farmer and they'd like to have the farm. But their farm is 12 miles away," Mrs Herr said "So that's almost impossble"

Mrs Herr still enjoys living on the Herr farm She likes to play her late husband's collection of music boxes and to show people her collection of glassware when she isn't busy keeping her farm in shape."

The Herr family will be among eleven other farm families honored Thursday night for owning a Lancaster County Century Farm.

The 82-acre Maurice Herr farm, near Refton, has a deed dating back to 1810 when the Rev. Christian Herr, Jr. purchased the property.

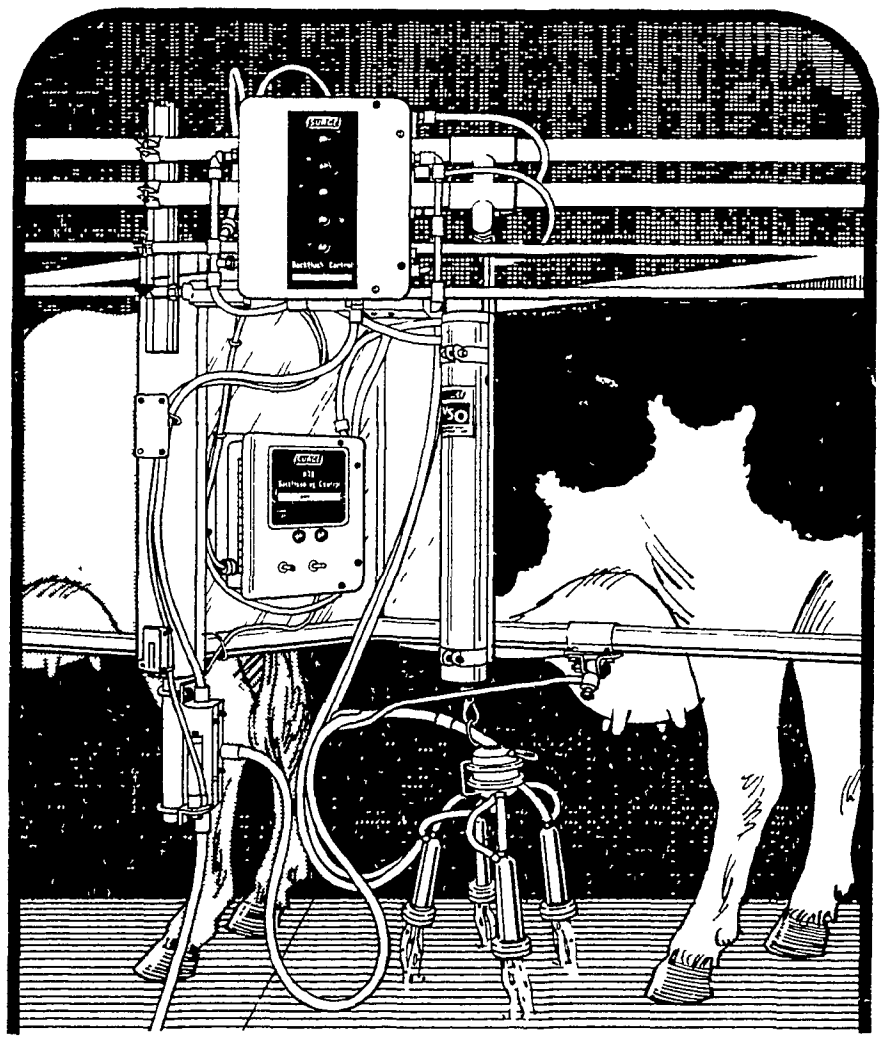
THE SURGE BACKFLUSH SYSTEM . . .

THE AUTOMATIC WAY TO CONTROL MASTITIS!



The Surge Blackflush System can cut your mastitis losses substantially by helping to prevent mastitis-causing bacteria from hiding in the milker inflations and getting a free ride from infected cows to healthy cows.

Here's how it works. After the cow is milked out, the milking unit is switched from the milk line to the backflushing position. The system then treats the milking unit to a four-stage cleaning and sanitizing process.

It's all done automatically in just a shade over a minute, completely independent of the operator.

Let us show you this automatic mastitis fighter.

We can make your cows worth more.

Local youths at convention

ATLANTA — Some 400 young delegates and their leaders with a special interest in horticulture, including Karen Nailor, Mechanicsburg, Lori Davidson, Shippensburg, Cinty Otto, Carlisle, and Donna Duncan, Carlisle, took part in the 46th annual National Junior Horticultural Association Convention on October 31 to November 3, 1980 at Atlanta, Georgia.

The NJHA meeting brought together young horticultural leaders from across the nation who competed in various demonstrations and contests, took part in tours of Six Flags Over Georgia, Callaway Gardens and other areas of interest around Atlanta, and learned many new things about the wide world of horticulture.

Convention delegates, ages 15 to 22, from about 25 states competed for national honors in such areas as environmental education and beautification, production and marketing; experimental horticulture; speaking contests, gardening; plant propagation; and achievement and leadership recognition.

Some 275 delegates competed in the judging, information and identification phases of the Horticulture Contest. They judged fruits, vegetables, flowers and ornamentals, took a written test on a variety of horticultural topics, and identified more than 100 specimens.

Other program highlights included horticultural and leadership workshops and messages from experts in the horticultural fields.

Climax of the four-day convention was the awards banquet where the national winners in the various categories of competition were announced.

NJHA is a growing, group of young persons who are interested in horticulture, the environment, and related fields for the purpose of an education.

Penn-York Co-op reviews dairy situation

ATHENS — Fenton Murphy of Ulster, Bradford County, treasurer of the Northeast Dairy Cooperative Federation, Inc. (NEDCO) was the main speaker at the semi-annual dinner meeting of the Penn-York milk cooperative He listed many alarming trends in the dairy industry in his speech last Friday.

First, there is an increase in milk production, he stated, and a decline in the consumption of cheese, the backbone of the milk industry. There is a tremendous back-up of cheese, he stated, cheddar cheese sales are off 28 pecent, and mozzarella, more, because pizza operations have gone into using imitation cheese.

The hauling situation is not good, he continued, it is getting very difficult to find truckers who can afford to keep their equipment in good condition.

Murphy stated that four million dollars are being spent for a special cheese promotion in New York State. Nedco, the only milk cooperative in Order 2 to contribute, has given $10,000, together with Land-O-Lakes and other milk companies, to fund the promotion

Murphy is also working on a mandatory program to promote dairy products in Pennsylvania 'The state should be ashamed for not having a program already," Murphy said.

Donald Meister, of Greene, New York, NEDCO insurance representative, spoke briefly that the cost of a two day hospital stay is equal to the price of hospitalization insurance for a whole year.

He said the average cost of a semi-private room per day is $155, for a private room, $185, and $245 plus for a day in intensive care.

Roy Beardslee, of Columbia Cross Roads, president of the Penn-York Co-op, was chairman of the meeting Nearly 200 farm family members enjoyed the dinner served by the Athens Firemens' Auxiliary.

The Penn-York Co-operative together with 33 similar milk co-ops is affiliated with NEDCO.-JB

NEBA honors technicians for outstanding service

BY JANE BRESEE
Staff Correspondent

ROME — Walter Abell, of Rome, Bradford County, was feted last Wednesday, for 30 years of service as a technician for NEBA (Northeastern Breeders Association)

Nearly 200 people, the largest crowd in the history of the Eastern Bradford Local Annual Dinner meetings, were presented to honor Abell at the North Orwell Community Hall.

Harry Keeney, inseminator for NEBA from Tunkhannock, having served 33 years, John Bonnick, also a 33 year veteran inseminator, and Bob Pond from Sullivan County, first technician in Pennsylvania having bred over 100,000 first services, attended with their wives

Also present were Greg Sander, Frank Herman, Harry Havens, and Larry Swenson, all inseminators from western Bradford County Many of these men told good-natured stories about their relationship over the years with Abell, and the crowd responded with much laughter

Walter Abell, right, is seen receiving congratulations for his 30 years of serving to NEBA from Chester Hale, a past director of Sire Power, Inc.

According to Bob Paar, district manager for NEBA-Sire Power, Abell has driven 51,000 miles in 30 years - equivalent to eight round trips to California, or two rounds trips to the moon. Inscribed to the plaque given to Abell were the words. In appreciation for 30 years of Service - 71,492 first services through September 30, 1980

Abell responded with a thank you for the plaque and remarked that he had never ridden on a snowmobile to get to his customers, but had ridden on bulldozers and in manure spreaders. He had heard that manure would make anything grow, he laughed, but he had not gained an inch in 30 years

Gifts from the Eastern Bradford Local were also given to Mr. Abell and his wife, Gladys

William Brown, chairman of the Advisory Committee, was moderator for the evening He introduced Jake Guffey, County Extension Services Agent, and Miss LuAnn Shedden, Bradford County Dairy Princess Both spoke briefly.

Also recognized were the technicians from Eastern Bradford: Everett Cook, unit manager, Larry Swenson, Carl Remington, and Walter Abell.

According to Jim Howard, Sire Power director from Bradford County, the new manager at Sire Power, DeWayne Lutz, has assumed his duties. The Board is looking into a building program to replace or repair some of the older buildings as they want to sample more sires

Bob Paar announced that in the past year there were 8768 first services in Eastern Bradford making a total of 15,000 first services in Bradford County

Steve Neely, Sire Program Consultant from Sire Power narrated a slide show concerning the operation at the Tunkhannock headquarters

John Culver, Bill Hennip and Bill Davis reelected to a two year term to the advisory committee. Robert Whipple was selected as Voting Delegate, and Richard Conover as Brown Swiss representative

Eastern Bradford Local is one of the many small groups comprising NEBA, a cooperative covering several counties in northeastern Pennsylvania. Together with the Maryland Artificial Breeding cooperative, and West Virginia Breeding Cooperative, NEBA owns Sire Power, Inc , a complete breeding service with headquarters in Tunkhannock, Pennsylvania

Alfalfa weed control tips

GEORGETOWN, Del -- It's time to implement weed control in alfalfa, says Delaware extension crops specialist Frank Webb. The control of competitive winter annuals such as chickweed, henbit, and mustard is important for both new and established stands.

Several materials are available for this use, but the selection wil depend on the weed species present and whether you have a pure alfalfa stand or an alfalfa grass mixture.

For chickweed problems in straight alfalfa stands, Furloe (also known as Chloro-IPC or CIPC) can be used

If common mustard, yellow rocket, wild turnip or peppergrass is a problem in straight alfalfa, 2,4-D-B is an excellent material to use However, air temperatures must be 50 degrees F or higher for several days after application for this material to be effective.

Another excellent chemical for fall weed control in both new and established stands in Kerb. It has a wide spectrum of control, but its selectivity varies with the soil type and application rate

Rates and details for application can be obtained from the Delaware Pest Control Recommendations for Agronomic Crops, Extension Bulletin 113.

For established stands only, Sinbar and Sencor or Lexone are good

National Geographic News Service

WASHINGTON — The wild turkey has something to gobble about Its population is in the best shape yet this century

This sleeker, cagier cousin of the domestic turkey has faced some hard times since the Pilgrims drew on a "great store of wild Turkies" for their Thanksgiving in 1621

The turkey declinded steadily in the 1700s and by the 19th century was eliminated from most of its original 39-state range North America's largest game bird, Meleagris gallopavo, was the victim of overhunting and the loss of its woodlands habitat to man

"Even as late as 1942, there were only an estimated 20,000 or 30,000 birds left in the entire country," said Gene Smith, editor of Turkey Call and an officer of the National Wild Turkey Federation At that time turkeys were confined to 21 states, most in the Southeast

Today, said Smith, there are an estimated 1 8 million wild turkeys in 49 states–all but Alaska More than 40 states have spring or fall turkey hunting seasons

What turned the tide was wildlife management, with a little trial an error Restoration efforts began after World War II with pen-reared wild turkeys But problems arose, as Smith explained

"The wildlife management profession discovered that pen-raised (wild) turkeys weren't truly wild They weren't self-sufficient and they lost the wariness that let them survive"

the subsequent mingling of pen-reared birds with purebred wild turkeys caused other problems, Smith asserted: "It polluted the gene pool and introduced poultry diseases such as blackhead and fowlpox"

So instead, managers began using a trap-and-transfer program to move wild flocks from high-density areas to habitats where the species could flourish Some turkeys are snared with rocket-fired nets, others are lured to eat a drugged bait, then wake up in a new home

In the mid-1950s, ornithologist S Dillion Ripley put several dozen wild turkeys on his family farm in northwestern Connecticut

[illegible] the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, estimates there are 200 or 300 wild turkeys on and around the farm

"I like having them around simply because they're native–they were there 100 years ago and they represent an American thing," he said.

"As you know, Benjamin Franklin thought the turkey ought to be the national bird He thought it was vulgar to pick the bald-headed eagle because it's a carrion-eater, whereas he thought the turkey a noble bird

"I don't necessarily feel exactly the same, but I think they're awfully pleasant to see–if you ever can They're hard to see."

That's because keen eyesight and a big streak of wariness are two of the bird's greatest assets And once the turkey spots an unnatural shape or movement, it can fly to safety at speeds of up to 55 miles an hour, or take off at a run of 15 mph or more

The wild turkey, Ben Franklin's candidate for our national bird, lost that campaign but is winning today's battle for survival. Found in every state but Alaska, it numbers an estimated 1.8 million.

Adult males and females travel in separate flocks Their days are spent in search of nuts, berries, fruit, seeds, plants, and insects–or, during the spring breeding season, in search of the opposite sex. Gobblers and hens find each other by trading gobbles and calls–unless a hunter lures a tom into range by imitating a hen's call

During courting the gobbler puts on his finest colors for hens His iridescent brown tail feathers fan out, his fatter-than-usual chest puffs up, and the fleshy wattles hanging from his head and neck fill with blood and turn bright red.

After mating, the hen takes on parenthood by herself She builds a simple ground nest and lays about a dozen eggs The poults that hatch some 28 days later can see, run around, and feed themselves almost at once. Within 10 days they can fly

For when the sun goes down, the turkeys go up–to tree limbs where they roost for a safer night's sleep. At least trees are the usual choice A wild turkey foundling raised at a rural Maryland home picked a more up-to-date roost: the neighbors' television antenna Added his owner "We promised to pay for any damages, but they said he improves the reception."

When a gobbler reaches full growth at age two, he could weight as much as 35 pounds, although average weights are far less.

The wild turkey today is both outweighed and outnumbered by his domestic cousin.

The Agriculture Department said U S. turkey production topped 167 million this year Actually, domestic turkeys are descendants of North America's other turkey species, the oscillated turkey of Mexico That bird was domesticated by the Aztecs, brought to Europe by Spaniards, and returned here by American colonists

While wild turkeys aren't all destined for the dinner table, most can't look forward to old age, either

"The record that we know of for a tagged or banded bird is 12 years," said Smith of the Turkey Call Yet most turkeys don't make it past two years

Although Smith calls the turkey's comeback "a tremendous success story," he warned that habitat preservation is a crucial issue "We've got to mind our step in the years ahead or we'll see a decline such as they had at the turn of the century," he said

"The population levels could go out, say in three years, if we continue to hack away at the hardwood forest and flood river bottom land, to remove the ideal habitat"

Tips on carving

YORK — Who's going to win the annual battle of carving the turkey at holiday meals? Marcell Seckman, Extension Home Economist offers a method that can make carving a turkey a graceful and easy task:

*Cool the bird for about 20 minutes before you start to carve. During this period the meat becomes more firm so that the turkey doesn't fall apart during carving.

*Separate the leg -- drumstick and thigh – by holding the drumstick firmly and pulling it away from the body. At the same time, cut through the skin between the leg and the body. With skin cut, the entire leg and the body. With skin cut, the entire leg will freely pull away.

*To remove the leg, press it away from the body. The joint connecting the leg to the backbone will often snap free or you may easily sever it with your knife point. Cut the dark meat completely from the body by following body contour carefully with your knife.

*Slice the dark meat by placing the leg on a separate plate and cutting through the connecting joint. You may slice the drumstick and thigh individually. Hold the drumstick with a napkin, and tilt it to a convenient angle while slicing toward the plate.

*To slice the thigh meat, hold the piece firmly with a fork Cut even slices parallel to the bone.

*Prepare the breast for easy slicing by placing the knife parallel and as close to the wing as possible. Make a deep cut into the breast and cut to the bone. This is your base cut and all breast slices will stop at this cut.

*After the base cut, begin to slice the breast. Start halfway up the side, carving down, and ending at the base cut. Start each new slice slightly higher up the breast. Keep slices thin and even.

Century Farm award winner

239 years of history recalled in Martin deeds

MARTICVILLE — Looking down over the living room on the Andrew H. and S Virginia Martin farm is a painting of the operation as it looked in 1910.

Painted just after the turn of the century, this picture in Andrew and Virginia Martin's home shows the farm as it looked about 75 years ago.

But the history of this Rl Pequea farm goes back 239 years - to 1741 when the farm was acquired for 76 Pounds Sterling (the British coin of the realm then in use) from the sons of William Penn

Andrew is the eighth generation on the farm. The title passes through his father's father and his great-grandmother's side of the family.

The bite of inflation on Lancaster County farmland was being felt even 239 years ago. By 1804 the farm was transfered for 2100 Pounds Sterling, or 27 times the original purchase price.

The seller wasn't going to take any chances on continental paper money. The deed specifies payment in gold and silver coin

Little by little the farm was increased in size to 148 acres. The youngest Martin son works on the farm. Of the current generation's crop of seven children, four are working on dairy operations

Today the Martin farm is a dairy, a change from days past when it was a typical self-sufficient farming unit with a few cows, a few hogs, a few chickens and the like.

Of the buildings on the land only the summer house may be original. The present farm house was built in 1889

Much older is the unique barn, put up in 1834. It is a double-decked barn with three foot thick walls.

The press house has seen a lot of history, too. At one time it was used to make whiskey from corn and grain, an honorable old Pennsylvania farm product.

Later the press house was used to squeeze grapes for

(Turn to Page D3)

Andrew H. and S. Virginia Martin's farm at Marticville has several buildings, including a press house and a spring house, which date back two centuries.

Snowfall slows European harvest

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Good harvest conditions prevailed in the U.S. Corn Belt last week, while snowfall in parts of the Soviet Union and Europe hampered both harvest activity and crop growth, according to a weekly report issued Thursday by the Joint Agricultural Weather Facility of the U.S. Department of Commerce and Agriculture.

United States. Dryness and seasonal temperatures provided good conditions for the late harvest in the Corn Belt.

Precipitation fell only in northern and eastern parts of the country, and totals rarely exceeded the normal. Moisture deficits were noted in the area centered on the Oklahoma Panhandle where newly sown wheat is still insufficiently developed.

USSR. Above-normal precipitation occurred as rain last week in the North Caucasus and southeastern Ukraine, and as snow from the western Ukraine eastward through the Chernozen Region and Volga Valley into the southern Urals. Depths in some important crop areas curtailed harvest activity.

Because of low temperatures, the snow will remain for awhile and stop winter grain growth earlier then normal in the south, at least temporarily. Substantial portions of spring-planted crops reportedly remained either unharvested or exposed in the fields.

In all central and northern countries, temperatures dipped far below normal and brought winter grain growth to an abrupt halt.

South America. Rains benefited the Argentine maize crop in northern Buenos Aires and adjacent provinces last week. In Brazil, abundant moisture has provided good conditions for the emergence and early growth of soybeans and maize in most central and southern crop areas.

South Africa. Dryness in southern portions of the Transvaal and most of the Orange Free State continues to hamper maize planting.

In the northern portion of the "Maize Triangle," however, continuing rainfall over the past three weeks has allowed sowing to take place.

Australia. Soil moisture supplies remained short last week in all areas except southeastern Australia. The wheat harvest is underway in many areas.

Eastern Asia. Low precipitation levels provided excellent conditions for the southern China rice harvest last week, with similar weather in South Korea.

South Asia. November is a dry month in this area and last week only the southern tip of India received substantial rainfall. Winter grains still should have adequate soil moisture in most regions.

Southeast Asia. Showers last week in the Central Plains north of Bangkok should help sustain reservoir levels for later irrigation purposes and benefit late-planted, wet season crops.

Old farm records show the fields used to produce some flax which was used to make feed bags and the rough cloth of the era.

Andrew was born on the farm and he and his wife have been living on the land for the past 20 years.

But 20 years is just a drop in the bucket of time the farm has been running. Deeds written in handsome penmanship record the transfer from generation to generation.

Many of them are on sheepskin. One huge deed includes not only the typical meets and bounds of the property but also the owner's will stating how his estate was to be dispersed.

Irregular margins at the top of the deed papers match with duplicates filed at the courthouse, assurance that the deed is not a forgery.

Each document, in turn, was passed through the family. Now, 239 years later, another generation of Martins continues to work the soil.

WASHINGTON BORO — It's pretty certain the deed to the Heisey farm was transferred in 1846 to Martin Heisey's grandfather, Henry L. Heisey

There are actually two deeds for the same land recorded as being transferred to the same man that day.

Martin W. and Mildred F. Heisey, R1 Anchor Road, Washington Boro, were among the 11 farm families honored Thursday evening at the fourth annual Agriculture-Industry banquet.

Today, as it was when his grandfather purchased the operation, the farm consisted of 30 acres. While the farm is a greenhouse and vegetable operation now, it has seen several changes through the years

The land was owned and farmed by the Lindeman family. Martin Heisey's grandmother was a Lindeman, so the operation may have been in the family even before 1846

Martin Heisey's father purchased the 30 acres for $3000. At the time, the farm was a dairy operation.

For a time the cows stayed around. For a while, Martin had 5000 chickens on the place, too, but poultry flocks of that size soon became obsolete.

Heiseys grow greenhouse tomatoes, sweet corn, canteloupes, and other truck crops which are sold at market in Columbia.

"We reared seven children on these 30 acres," the Heiseys say. All but one have left farming altogether, that son is getting a Ph D. in agronomy and, like his brothers and sisters, won't be coming back to the homeplace, Martin says.

"You just can't make a good living on 30 acres today," he says, although his own presence on the farm belies that statement to a degree.

Perhaps the PP&L lines across the property today attract the lightening, saving the barn from further strikes

PP&L did a further service to the farm None of the deeds to the place ever was recorded in the court house in the early days. All transfers were done by word of mouth.

On March 21, 1934 the utility recorded the deed, establishing a permanent record.

Heiseys have lived on the farm for 37 years and continue to ship produce to market throughout the year.

Martin and Mildred Heisey look over some of the original deeds to the family farm. Many still have tax stamps, like postage stamps, affixed. Others are sealed with wax.

The Martin W. and Mildred Heisey operation at R1 Washington Boro is mainly a greenhouse and a truck farm today although Martin's father maintained a dairy on its 30 acres.

The reserve grand champion Holstein bull was the first place calf. Rowntree Fury Talent was exhibited by Elginvue Farms, Arlington, Minnesota.

The grand champion female was the first-place aged cow and senior champion, Strickler Double Cinders. She was exhibited by Quietcove Holstein Farm, Wapakoneta, Ohio.

Following her in the Aged Cow class and as reserve Senior champion was the entry of Ransdell Dairy, Salvisa, Kentucky. Ransdell Astro Christine was tagged Reserve Grand Champion Female of the Open Holstein Show.

Lynn and Bonnie Miller of Towanda, Bradford County, took second place in the Holstein Junior Heifer Calf competition with their entry, Royal Haven Blossom.

In the Two-Year-Old Holstein class, Ralph Moore, Mercer, took third place with his entry Amore Bootmaker Mindy. And in the Three-Year-Old competition, Edward and Eleanor Karpa, Arella, placed second with Karpa Model Maker Alice.

Brown Swiss Show Judge Fred Foreman, Ames, Iowa, looked at more than 100 head vying for the championship slots during the Brown Swiss Open Show on November 10.

Emerging as the grand champion bull was Senior Yearling, Alpine Hills Enterprise, owned by Alpine Hills Farms, Corinth, Kentucky.

Reserve Champion Bull honors went to Lazy Acre Farm, Scottsville, Kentucky, with their entry, Manions Design Joe, a bull calf, born October 2, 1979.

The Grand Champion Female Award was won by Meander Evening Out, a nine-year-old cow, owned and shown by Sand Rock Farm, Rocky Ridge, Maryland.

The reserve champion female of the Brown Swiss Show was Mayfair Gusty Sina Sue, a 7-year-old cow, shown by Susan Cone, Salem, Illinois.

Bob Griggs of Mustang, Oklahoma, had to be a happy man at the conclusion of the National Guernsey Show. Grigg's cow carried off honors for premier breeder, premier exhibitor and exhibitor's herd. In addition, his Circleview Darlmost Maisy, a nine-year-old cow, won the Reserve Grand Champion Female honors and was second place as best uddered cow.

For exhibitor's herd Griggs had to show five cows, two which had calved, two which had not and a fifth cow of any age; three of the cows had to be bred by him and all had to have been owned by him. Premier breeder was decided on a point basis on six animals in the open single classes, including both his own animals and those bred by him but exhibited by others.

The J. and D. Mithoefer and family of Claypool, Indiana, had the Grand Champion Female award with their two-year-old cow Jualmi Top Jollye Candy. The cow also won the best udder award.

Dardenella Farm, Orangeburg, South Carolina, showed the best three females and were runners-up in the exhibitor's herd class. Third-place exhibitor's herd went to the Floyd Wachtel family from Big Prairie, Ohio.

In their first visit to the North American International Livestock Exposition, the Mortson family of Queensville, Ont., Canada, captured the grand championship female honors. Their four-year-old Jersey cow, Echo Brook Samare's Noreen, followed up her junior show win by taking the Grand Champion Female title in the All American Jersey Show.

Reserve Grand Champion went to an entry from Greenland Farms, Hopkinsville, Ky., another four year-old cow, A.S.M. Miss America of CJF, this year's National Jersey Jug Futurity winner.

Although the dairy portion of the gigantic North American International Livestock Exposition was winding down after several event-filled days, the Ayrshire Show did not lose momentum.

Over 100 Ayrshires paraded around the showring during the show which offered $5000 in premiums and awards. Judging the event was Fred Foreman.

Emerging as the grand champion female of the Ayrshire Show was a four-year-old cow, Barragars Violets Daisy, owned by Marcia Barrager, Oswego, Kansas.

The reserve champion female, Tip-Ayr Super Starprim, was a three-year-old cow, owned by Tip-Ayr Farm, Girard, Kansas.

The Grand Champion Bull honors were taken by Shiredale Pacemaker Victor, a yearling bull, owned by Shiredale Farm, Ada, Ohio.

Receiving the Premier Breeders Award at the Ayrshire Show was Tip-Ayr Farm, Girard, Kansas. Tip-Ayr also received the Premier Exhibitor Award.

Newcastle threat to poultry eliminated

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The threat to the U.S. poultry industry posed by the most recent outbreak of exotic Newcastle disease in cage birds appears to have been eliminated, a U.S. Department of Agriculture veterinarian said last Thursday.

"We feel we've found all the infected birds," said Jerry Mason, who coordinated the national program to eradicate this foreign bird disease. "However, suspicious symptoms at a few aviaries and pet shops are still being checked

"We were forced to destroy some 30,000 exotic cage birds at more than 550 locations in 45 states - and spend more than $2.8 million - but it was worth it," he said.

"USDA estimates that exotic Newcastle disease would cost the poultry industry $400 million annually, if it became established in the United States. This cost would be passed on to consumers as higher poultry and egg prices," he said A 1971-73 outbreak in southern California caused the death or destruction of 12 million laying hens and cost $56 million to eradicate.

The disease was first detected at a Miami, Fla., cage bird wholesale facility September 10. Veterinarians traced bird shipments from Miami to 44 other states, Mason said. The disease was diagnosed on 61 premises in 23 of those states: Arizona, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Maine, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, Ohio, Oregon, Texas, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia and New Jersey.

To fight the outbreak, USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service activated - for the first time - all five of its regional emergency task forces, Mason said. USDA and cooperating state veterinarians worked from temporary headquarters in Miami, Fla., Topeka, Kans.; Hyattsville, Md.; Santa Ana, Calif., and Houston, Texas, to locate all infected and exposed birds.

Birds shipped to the infected facilities were killed and specimens submitted to USDA's national veterinary services laboratories at Ames, Iowa, for testing. Swab samples taken from exposed birds were also submitted to the laboratories

This procedure made it possible to destroy only those birds from facilities that tested positive. All birds in a pet shop were killed only in those 61 instances when the disease agent was diagnosed on the premises.

Volume-Belt® cattle feeder by JAMESWAY®

Costs less

Simple design gives you big-capacity performance at a lower cost per foot than other feeders in its class. Few moving parts to cause feeding slowdowns. Takes only 1 hp to load up a 190 ft. bunk, so you save on power costs while you save feeding time. Fast, quiet and dependable, too.

See us for systems and service that help make the good life better.

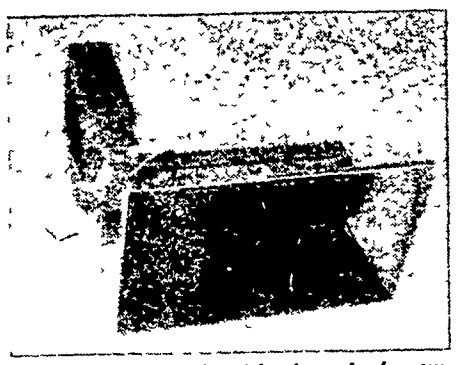
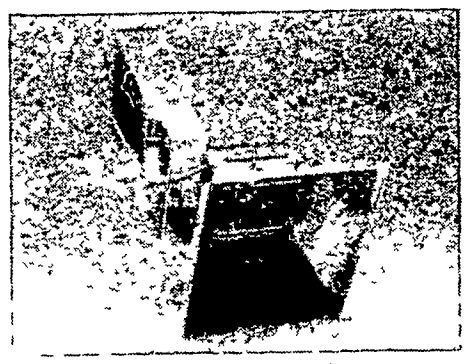
Infrared Brooders For Hogs



Sunnypig 3 for a ambient heating of a farrowing pen or 20 to 30 weaner pigs

Quality You Can Count On



Sunnypig 1 to heat a litter of piglets or a pen of 10 to 12 young pigs

SBM has been making Brooders for more than 20 years. Nearly 100,000 brooders are sold every year.

Sunnypigs are made of stainless steel. Their three-level radiating surface (a patented combination of ceramics, nickel chromium mesh and directional fins) is an efficient generator of radiant heat. They come equipped with a support consisting of five-foot chains, a flame safety device, a very effective primary air filter (patented) and a replacement filter. The filter should be cleaned at regular intervals, a little work that will save you a lot.

National wool growers to meet

LANCASTER — Leaders in the areas of milling, distributing and financing lamb and wool products will headline program activities at the 116th meeting of the National Wool Growers Association when it gets underway in San Antonio, Jan. 25-28, 1981.

"There is continued interest and expansion in the sheep industry," said Marvin Cronberg, NWGA president, "and we need to look at these demand areas so we don't oversupply the available market." Cronberg also noted that traditional problem areas of research, predation and public land issues would be scrutinized.

U.S. Congressman E. "Kika" De La Garza of Texas and Tom Lefler will analyze legislative trends under the new administration. Jack Barton of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Texas will look at livestock financial demand and supply.

Barry Flinchbaugh, assistant to the president of Kansas State University will analyze effective political action by small organizations, and Chris Jouflas, the Colorado sheep rancher who is president of the American Sheep Producers Council, the promotional arm of the U.S. sheep industry, will address the meeting.

R.J. Rich of Burley, Idaho, who serves as chairman of the board of the NWGA, said the concerns of sheepmen go far beyond the traditional coyote problems. "We're concerned about the diet-health controversy as it relates to the consumption of lamb," he said. Rich also stressed that the renewal of the Wool Act is a legislative priority for 1981, as is import relief.

"We'll be discussing these issues and trying to evaluate their impact on our present growth trend," Rich said.

A post convention cruise on a paddle-wheeler from New Orleans will round out the 116th meeting agenda.

Newlin, Iowa, named FFA chairman

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Dr. Owen J. Newlin, Vice President of Pioneer Hi-Bred International, Inc., Des Moines, Iowa, has been named 1981 Chairman of the National Future Farmers of America (FFA) Foundation Sponsoring Committee.

As Chairman, Newlin will lead the effort to provide funds for programs, incentive awards, contests and leadership training for high school vocational agriculture/agribusiness students who are FFA members. He will coordinate the contact of potential FFA Foundation sponsors.

"In 1980 the Foundation Sponsoring Committee raised well over $1 million," Newlin said. I think it's important to note that even in this time of recessive economics monetary support of FFA programs has increased. Last year more than 1,000 businesses and industries, organizations and individuals contributed to the National FFA Foundation. This shows that agricultural leaders sincerely believe in the Future Farmers of America."

Before the convention crowd of nearly 20,000, Newlin expressed his goal of raising enough funds to meet the FFA's needs for increased development of agricultural skills and leadership programs.

Lu Achilles Wall, Executive Assistant to the Chairman of Hesston Corporation, Hesston, Kansas, will assist Newlin as 1982 chairman-elect of the Sponsoring Committee Wall, Newlin and retiring chairman Roland M. Hendrickson, President of Pfizer Agricultural Division, New York, will make up the committee's executive council.

Newlin and Wall were elected during a dinner meeting of National FFA Foundation, Inc. Newlin then spoke at the convention session that honored FFA sponsors.

Newlin received his bachelor's degree in agronomy and master's in crop production, both from Iowa State University. His doctorate in plant breeding and genetics is from the University of Minnesota. Newlin joined Pioneer in 1955 as a production research assistant then served as production manager and president of the central division before being named vice president in 1978.

Commodity expert to address session

HERSHEY — David Maher, a Commercail Commodity Specialist for Shearson Loeb Rhoades, Inc., will speak Monday at a conference during the 30th Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

Several hundred farmers' association members are attending the convention taking place at the Hershey Motor Lodge and Convention Center, November 23 to 26. Primary purpose of the event is to adopt policy on statewide issues affecting agriculture and to elect association officers.

Maher will discuss, "The Futures Market and Hedging." He is also president of the Sioux City Grain and Feed Co., Sioux City, IA. Other conferences on marketing and farm business organizaton are also scheduled to take place Monday.

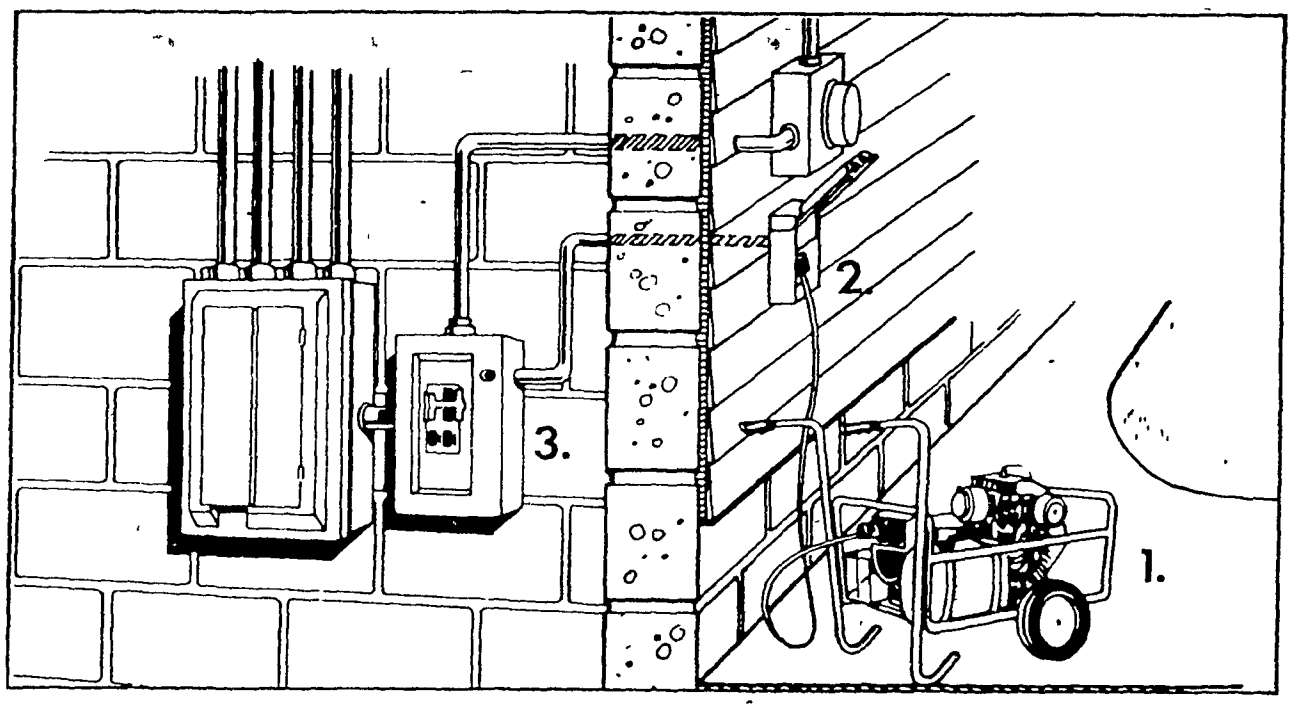
How to protect your home during a power blackout

A Kohler Powerhouse Generator with optional Emergency Power Kit (connection box and transfer switch) puts electricity directly into the circuitry of your home. Now you can power essentials like the furnace, refrigerator, freezer, sump pump, and water pump with power to spare for appliances and lights.



1. Powerhouse Generator. Choose 3500 watt or 5000 watt Kohler Powerhouse generator with manual or electric start to power your home. Produces 120/240 volt electricity. Powered by long-life Kohler cast-iron engine

2. Connection Box. The Kohler weatherproof outdoor connection box accepts the power cord from the generator Installed on the exterior of your home, it permits generator power to flow to the Transfer Switch

3. Transfer Switch. Kohler's safety interlock switch transfers the circuitry of your home from "normal" line power to the emergency power source — your generator. The switch permits line power and emergency power to enter the circuitry, but not both at the same time.

N.Y.-N.J. October milk pegged at $13.57

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Dairy farmers supplying milk plants regulated under the New York-New Jersey marketing orders during October will be paid on the basis of a uniform price of $13.57 per hundredweight or 29.2 cents per quart.

Market Administrator Thomas A. Wilson also said that the uniform farm price per hundredweight was $13.31 in September 1980 and $12.64 in October 1979. The uniform price is a marketwide weighted average of the value of farm milk used for fluid and manufactured dairy products.

The seasonal incentive fund returned a total of $3,711,058.21, or $.441 per hundredweight, to the dairy farmer's uniform price for October. This fund was generated by reducing the uniform price paid producers during the high production spring months.

The total amount of milk received from the 17,533 dairy farmers supplying the New York-New Jersey Marketing Area was 840,005,134 pounds during October 1980. This was more than 27.8 million pounds above last year.

The gross value to dairy farmers for milk deliveries was $116,859,917.85.

Wilson explained that this included differentials required to be paid to dairy farmers but not voluntary premiums or deductions authorized by the farmer.

Regulated milk dealers (handlers) utilized 408,772,296 pounds of milk for Class I, 48.7 percent of the total. Class I milk is used for fluid milk products such as homogenized, flavored, low test and skim milks.

For October 1980, handlers paid $14.11 per hundredweight, or 30.3 cents per quart, for the milk used in Class I products compared with $13.34 a year ago.

The balance of the milk, 51.3 percent, was used to manufacture Class II products including butter, cheese, ice cream and yogurt. For this milk the handlers paid $12.48 per hundredweight.

The uniform price is based on milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. For October 1980 a differential of 16.9 cents was applied to the price for each one-tenth of one percent that the milk tested above or below the 3.5 percent standard.

All prices quoted are for bulk tank milk received within the 201-210 mile zone from New York City.

Vet school head to address members

HERSHEY — Dr. Robert Marshak, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine, will address the Century Membership Dinner being held Sunday evening, November 23, in conjunction with the 30th Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

PFA's convention is taking place November 23 to 26 at the Hershey Motor Lodge and Convention Center, Hershey. Several hundred farmers' association leaders including voting delegates will be meeting to adopt policies and elect officers.

Deal Marshak will discuss changes which have occurred in veterinary medical education and practice.

"Veterinary medicine has expanded into a biomedical profession of such breadth that its members are now among those best equipped to deal effectively with some of society's most urgent problems, particularly those which concern the complex inter-relationships among human beings, animals and the environment," Dr. Marshak says.

Century Club members are PFA building fund contributors.

The best way to protect this country's livestock industry from some of the world's serious plant and animal diseases is to stop those diseases from entering the country in any form.

The Department of Agriculture has an elaborate system of inspection at various ports of entry, and so far it's been pretty lucky Several of the world's most damaging diseases have been kept out, but it's a never-ending battle as a recent outbreak of exotic Newcastle disease illustrates.

A few pet birds that somehow entered the country carrying that disease and the next thing you know there were confirmed infected birds in almost 20 states. Quick action and a little luck, and it looks as though the threat was contained. But there's always the next time.

Even though there's a quarantine system and all sorts of inspections, the threat looms quite large to the poultry industry.

Another potential threat is from African swine fever. Several close-by countries have it, including Cuba and Haiti, so animal health officials are always on the alert. They know that one infected animal or pork scrap from one of those countries could introduce it.

The problems that would cause are almost unmeasurable.

The Dominican Republic has had a serious swine fever problem and its government has opted for the ultimate solution — elimination of that small country's entire swine population. After fighting a futile battle for years, animal health officials in that country finally decided that the only way they cou'd clean up the disease problem would be to get rid of all the pigs and start over.

That's exactly what's happening. With the help of U.S. Department of Agriculture experts they've gotten rid of all of their hogs and now they're going to start over.

Pigs have always played a critical role in the lives of the Dominican people. Besides commercial production for domestic use and export, nearly every rural family keeps a few animals for daily use.

In the past almost every family had a pig or two in the back yard. They were allowed to run loose in the neighborhood, scrounging for food wherever they could find it...a most difficult environment when you consider a disease control program

In the spring of 1978 Dominican pigs began dying from some mysterious disease. The problem was diagnosed mistakenly as hog cholera. An intense vaccination program followed, but it soon became evident that the vaccinated pigs were dying as quickly as non-vaccinated pigs. Only then did veterinarians properly diagnose the problem as African swine fever But that was several months later and by then the disease had spread across the country

Government officials considered many alternatives for eradicating the costly African swine fever, and finally decided that eliminating the entire swine population would be the least expensive procedure with the highest probability of success.

So the government made the decision, unique in the history of the Western hemisphere, to eliminate an entire domestic animal species and start fresh with new swine, free of African swine fever and many other bothersome diseases.

That decision forced the Dominican government not only to deal with the technical aspects of eradication but also with social implications and economic disruptions.

The eradication program started in August 1979 and by September 1980 there wasn't a pig left in that country. Under the direction of the Dominican secretary of agriculture, more than 90 brigades of veterinarians, soldiers, field workers and animal health personnel, moved simultaneously from the west, north and east, rounding up and destroying every swine herd and every back yard pig.

Simultaneously the government launched a major public information effort to tell farmers that they would receive a fair price for their hogs. They were given the option of slaughtering them, on the spot, for family consumption or of being paid for them. Meat from hogs that have African swine fever is not harmful to humans who eat it, so human consumption provided a fairly useful technique in the eradication program.

Along with this effort the government started a poultry distribution program to help feed rural families during the time before disease-free pigs could be reintroduced. And it also supplied rural groups with information and demonstrations on how to care for poultry.

After a three-month waiting period to be sure the virus was completely destroyed, susceptible swine from the United States were introduced as sentinals to test whether the virus was still present. If these sentinals remain healthy for three months, the government will then begin restocking the country with disease-free pigs shipped from the United States.

That whole process will take at least another year, but then the country should be completely free of African swine fever as well as many other costly and bothersome swine diseases.

Of course the threat will remain from outside its borders, so a strong vigil must be maintained as it is here in the United States where animal health officials operate a variety of inspection and surveillance activities. Not only must they stop infected animals and carcasses, but also any kind of swine fever contaminated food scraps or garbage from entering the country.

In both the Dominican Republic and Brazil, the original outbreaks of African swine fever were traced back to food scraps that came off international airline flights.

Meanwhile, the Department of Agriculture is working with other countries of the Western hemisphere in an effort to help eradicate the African swine fever virus from the Western hemisphere. That would be the ultimate solution.

PFA to hold 30th annual meeting

HERSHEY — The 30th Annual Meeting of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association starts Sunday evening with a Vesper Service.

Several hundred farmers' association members, including 172 delegates, are attending the convention to decide policy on statewide farm issues, elect officers and participate in special events.

PFA is a voluntary, general farm organization with over 22,500 farm family members. It is affiliated with the American Farm Bureau Federation.

The PFA convention will take place November 23 to 26 at the Hershey Motor Lodge and Convention Center, Hershey.

The Reverend Joseph Seville, Rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, Mount Joy, will deliver the vesper service sermon.

The voting delegate session gets underway Monday morning with a roll call and will continue in morning and afternoon sessions throughout the remainder of the convention. Monday morning's activities also include the annual address of the PFA President, Eugene Thompson of Indiana County.

Pennsylvania Agriculture Secretary Penrose Hallowell will adress Monday's convention opening luncheon.

Hallowell, who was born and raised on a Bucks County farm, once served as president of one of PFA's county farmers' associations. He has been Pennsylvania's Agriculture Secretary since January, 1979.

As Secretary, he worked for enactment of one of the priority policy recommendations of PFA — the Milk Producers Security Fund. The fund, which was established this summer, will guarantee up to 75 percent of the payments due milk producers for shipments if their dairy should go bankrupt.

The fund is being financed by milk dealer contributions. An optional security fund for dairy co-op members was also established.

Afternoon activities include the annual meeting of PFA's Member Service Corporation followed by a panel discussion on farm business organization.

Other conferences are also scheduled on commodity futures hedging and export marketing.

Gary Mede, Executive Vice President and General Manager of the Illinois Agricultural Association Trust Company, will be the guest speaker at the group dinner Monday evening.

Tuesday morning, in addition to a session of the voting delegates, the Women's Conference will take place with guest speaker Kenneth Cheatham, Director of Local Governmental Affairs and Safety for the American Farm Bureau Federation.

PFA Administration Secretary Richard Newpher will present his annual report to the convetion at 11 a.m. Tuesday. He will be followed by a group luncheon featuring guest speaker John Datt, Administrative Secretary of the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Frank Wooley, Executive Director of the Association of American Physicians and Surgeons, Inc., will address an organization conference Tuesday afternoon. An awards banquet featuring presentation of PFA Distinguished Service Award and address by former U.S. Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz will highlight Tuesday evening's activities.

Special events Wednesday include a breakfast meeting of county farmers' association presidents and a meeting of the PFA State Women's Committee. Voting delegates will condlude deliberations on policy resolutions before calling a business meeting to order to adopt offical 1981 PFA policy.

The PFA president and eight of 16 state board directors will also be elected to two year terms during the business meeting.

Eight Women's' Committee vacancies will also be filled.

1981 livestock prices, costs to jump sharply

NEW HOLLAND — Livestock and poultry prices are expected to increase later this fall and throughout most of 1981 as total meat supplies remain below year-earlier levels

However, despite prospects for much higher 1981 prices, the outlook for producers' profits has been clouded by much higher costs, particularly for feed. Sharply higher meat prices are also in store for 1981. Higher livestock and poultry prices will be necessary to enable producers to cover higher feeding costs, particularly on marketings in the second half of 1981.

If livestock and poultry prices fail to cover production costs, future output may be reduced

Total red meat and poultry supplies are expected to increase seasonally this fall, but remain below levels of a year ago. Increased fed cattle marketings this fall and winter will be further augmented by continued large nonfed cattle slaughter so beef production will likely be above year-earlier levels.

Pork supplies are rising seasonally, but remain below last year's levels and the rate of decline will accelerate late this fall

Broiler producers have started to expand production in response to prospects for declining red meat supplies and higher prices But increases in broiler output may be limited by higher production costs.

Per capita consumption of pork in 1981 may fall about 10 percent from 1980 levels, and beef consumption could be down slightly.

Broiler consumption in early 1981 will about equal last year's levels and should increase throughout the remainder of the year, but not enough to offset the drop in red meat consumption. Consequently, per capita red meat and poultry consumption may decline about two to four percent in 1981

Retail meat prices in the third quarter increased 4.5 percent from the previous quarter, but were still only 3.9 percent above the third quarter of 1979 The Consumer Price Index for pork rose 9 6 percent from the previous quarter but only 2.9 percent for beef

Declining meat supplies, rising consumer incomes, and continued high rates of inflation are likely to result in substantial increases in retail meat prices in 1981

Pork prices are expected to increase the most, perhaps 25 percent or more Beef prices may increase 12 to 16 percent and poultry meat prices 15 to 20 percent

The sharpest price increases may begin in the second quarter as nonfed cattle slaughter slows with the beginning of the spring grazing season.

Fed cattle price gains will likely be held down through the first quarter of 1981 as the large nonfed slaughter supplements increased fed cattle marketing. Choice fed steer prices at Omaha may average in the upper $60's this fall before moving to the low $70's in the first quarter of pork supplies decline.

Prices may reach $80 next spring before leveling off in the second half of 1980

Continued large feeder cattle movements and increased feeding costs will hold down feeder cattle prices through much of the first quarter. Yearling feeder cattle prices may average in the mid-to-upper $70's until late in the winter quarter before increasing to the upper $80's as the spring grazing season begins and the forced cattle movement declines.

Feeding margins are likely to be most favorable on cattle marketed in the spring quarter as a result of rising fed cattle prices at the lower prices for feeder cattle when they were placed on feed.

Increased production costs have offset much of the recent rise in hog prices Hog prices in the fourth quarter are expected to average about $46, up from $36 a year ago and well above $31 in the second quarter.

Prices will strengthen as pork production declines late in the fourth quarter and throughout 1981 in reaction to large losses in 1979/80

Hog prices may average near $50 in the first half of next year and about cover production costs. Prices may increase to the upper $50's in the second half of the year giving producers a profit margin that could lead to expanded breeding inventories late in 1981.

MEDIA — Three Delaware County 4-H leaders were sent to National Leaders Forums this fall.

Elsie and Melvin Brown of Ridley Township spent a week at Jackson's Mill State 4-H Camp in West Virginia with 150 4-H leaders from 12 states. According to C.R. Bryan, Jr., Delaware County 4-H Agent.

The focus of this forum was "4-H and the Family" which was designed to help leaders strengthen family involvement in 4-H. The sessions featured presentations, discussions and workshops to strengthen 4-H leaders ability to share with others the learning experiences in family growth that can happen through 4-H involvement.

Nadine Albany of Prospect Park spent a week at the National 4-H Center in Washington, D.C., exploring ways to involve more disabled youth in 4-H programs. Forty nine 4-H staff and 4-H leaders from 17 states attended this forum which had speakers, workshops, tours and sharing sessions about needs, accessibility, training and program adaption for disabled youth. Each participant has made plans and set goals for their state and county 4-H programs. 4-H will be actively participating in programs for 1981 - The International Year of Disabled Persons.

4-H Clubs are conducted by volunteer adult leaders with support from the county 4-H organizations and staff. Membership is open to any youth between the ages of 8 and 19 on non-distriminatory basis.

Any one who is interested in becoming a leader in 4-H should contact the 4-H office for more information. Some projects that 4-H offers include gardening, communications, careers, engineering, (bicycle, wood working, electricity, etc). home economics, embryology, and animal science.

Pa. Dairy Judging team takes championship at NAILE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The Pennsylvania team emerged as the champs during the 4-H Dairy Quiz Bowl during the North American International Livestock Exposition, defeating six other teams from Michigan, Ohio, New York, Maryland, Virginia, and Kentucky.

Members of the championship team included Alice Mark, captain; Lois Mark, Howard Mark, and Allen March, with team alternate Steve March. Team coach was Roy Malik.

The New York State team placed second in the 4-H Dairy Quiz Bowl competition which is expected to draw several more teams to the event next year.

The Quiz Bowl, traditionally an invitational event for 4-H teams across the nation, had previously been held during the Virginia State Fair. When organizers of the annual 4-H event were informed that the Quiz Bowl would no longer be a part of the Fair, they started looking for a new home.

George Heersche, Extension Dairy Specialist at the University of Kentucky and a co-manager of the event, said the size of the dairy shows at the North American were an important factor in moving the Quiz Bowl to the Expo.

"With the quality and quantity of dairy cattle involved in the North American International, having the Quiz Bowl in conjunction with it gives contestants (all between the ages of 15 and 19) an opportunity to view the best dairy cattle in the world as well as display and increase their knowledge during the contest."

"What percentage of Holsteins make up the dairy population of the United States?", "At what age does a calf's rumen develop fully", and "When preparing a cow for show, who do your leave some whiskers on the nose?" These questions, plus many more, were asked to members of the seven teams participating in this year Quiz Bowl.

Hoard's Dairyman, a national dairy publication, was the reference for all questions asked. Gerald LaSalle, of the publication, moderated the final two rounds of the Quiz Bowl.

Roger Hemken and Gary Lane of the University of Kentucky judged the Quiz Bowl, Gale Baumgardner, Dairy Youth Specialist at Michigan State University, and a co-manager, moderated the event. Peter Spike, Ohio State University, worked closely with the management and planning of the Quiz Bowl

Delmarva nematode survey underway

GEORGETOWN, Del — Delmarva corn and soybean fields are once again being surveyed this fall for the presence of nematodes

This is the third year for the survey, which is sponsored by the Mobile Chemical Company in cooperation with the extension services of Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

The survey includes all of Kent and Sussex counties in Delaware, as well as most of the rest of the Delmarva peninsula.

Now that the harvest season is drawing to a close, corn and soybean farmers should have more time to get out and sample their fields for nematodes. University of Delaware extension plant pathologist Bob Mulrooney urges all Delaware farmers in the survey area to participate, since the kind of nematodes being found affect both crops.

There's no fee and you can sample any fields you want to.

As a result of last year's survey, heavy nematode populations were found in a number of fields and control measures were instituted

Because of the high cost of chemicals involved in treating for nematodes, before applying any controls growers need to find out whether populations are high enough to warrant treatment The only way to know this is to survey suspected fields, says Mulrooney. Fall is the best time to collect samples.

Sampling procedures for nematodes differ from those for soil fertility in density of samples collected per acre, so for accurate results check with your county agent for instructions on how to collect samples.

The way soil is handled after collection will also affect accuracy of results.

Nematode sampling kits and record sheets are available free from extension offices in participating counties as well as from many area fertilizer salesmen. Farmers are urged to get their samples taken by the 16th of December.

For further information in Delaware call you county agricultural agent in Dover (302/736-4675) or Georgetown (302/856-5250).

USDA wants to kill January crop report

WASHINGTON, D.C. — USDA has proposed to discontinue its January 1 planting intentions report and has asked the public to comment on the proposal before December 1.

A decision on the proposal will be made by mid-December.

The two main reasons for the proposed discontinuance are a reduction in the cost to the government and an effort to reduce the individual farmer's reporting burden.

If the January report is discontinued, USDA may reschedule the April planting intentions report back to March.

Details of the proposal are in the November 4 Federal Register.

Conservationists nominate Goodyear for Nobel

LEBANON — A possible solution to the problem of disposing of polychlorinated biphenyls, the infamous PCB's, has been developed by scientists working for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company.

This breakthrough was recognized recently by George B. Wolff, president of the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation District.

"This achievement deserves the gratitude of not only our generation in America but future generations both here and throughout the world." said Wolff.

Goodyear scientists have developed a safe, simple inexpensive way to dispose of PCB's, one of our nations most pervasive toxic chemical wastes. This process turns toxic waste material into harmless sludge and common table salt, according to the scientists at Goodyear, thus alleviating disposal problems, health threats to man and harmful effects to the environment.

The PACDD Council was asked by Duane Clarke, chairman of it's Water Resources Committee to take formal action initiating the nomination of the Goodyear research scientists responsible for the development of the new process for the 1981 Nobel Prize for chemistry, added Wolff.

According to Carl Snyder, head of the research team that discovered this scientific breakthrough, the process conceivably could be used in breaking other hazardous chemicals related to PCB's such as DDT and other pesticides and herbicides.

The Pennsylvania Association of Conservation District Directors is an organization made up primarily of farmers. Preservation of soil by elimination of any toxic wastes which threaten the soil, is one of the conservation-oriented group's primary concerns.

Guernsey, Holstein cattle average nearly $3000 at NAILE

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — A four-year-old cow consigned by Jones Dairy Farm, Fort Atkinson, Wisconsin, commanded the top price at the fifth annual Kentucky Bluegrass Classic Holstein Sale, held during the North American International Livestock Exposition at the Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center, Louisville

The cow, JDF-WI Ivy Una, sold for $6100 to Newell Rawlings, Armada, Michigan. Total sales receipts for the sale was $135,800, with an average sale price of $2,952 for the 46 heifers and cows sold. No bulls were in the sale.

Sales manager Alvin Piper, Lake Mills, Wis., said that prices were a little low but it was a good sale. He pointed out that since the Holstein show is an open evnt, not a national show, the Bluegrass Classic corresponded more to a local show than a national one.

A special feature at this year's sale was a drawing for a heifer calf donated by Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green. Proceeds from the raffle will go towards defraying expenses for Junior exhibitors to attend the National Holstein Show.

The lucky winner was Tammy Twenhafel of Centralia, Illinois. Her dad bought the ticket for Tammy. The lucky little lady was not present to receive her winnings — she couldn't get an excuse from school to attend the North American International.

Bob Jones, coordinator of the National Fall Guernsey Sale at the NAILE, reported the sale average rose to $2393.75 for the 24 females sold.

In addition to the sale of high quality Guernseys, the First National Fall Guernsey Sale also featured auction of 126 units of semen.

The high-selling Guernsey was Mitchell's Choice Mitzi Mendy who took a final price of $4300. She was owned by David J Mitchell of Enfield, Illinois and bought by Edward Beiler and Family of Bellevue, Ohio

This year marked the first time the Guernsey Cattle Club has conducted the National Fall Guernsey Sale. Indications are that the sale will be renewed in 1981

New Jersey 4-H leaders recognized

BERLIN, N.J. — "Support of 4-H" was the theme at the annual Camdem County Leaders Recognition Dinner held recently in Berlin.

Volunteer leaders and friends of 4-H were cited for their involvement in the Camden County 4-H program during 1979-80.

"The Friend of 4-H and Partners in 4-H awards are given annually to an individual or group who support and aid the county 4-H program," states Sara Crane Drabik, 4-H agent.

The County Board of Chosen Freeholders received the 1980 "Friend of 4-H" award for their continued support in the development of the 4-H Center at Lakeland. Freeholder Joseph Roberts was present to accept the award.

Also in attendance was Congressman James Florio. "Partners in 4-H" awards are given to individuals and groups who work together with 4-H. This year's recipients are the Berlin Community Newpaper group, Berlin; Art Willits, professional horse show announcer from Turnersville; and Wiliam Gilfillan, of Haddonfield, an electrician with the Lakeland Complex.

Bob Hutchinson, Berlin, received the Harry E. Mumma award. Hutchinson a 4-H leader for 17 years are cited for his hard work in the livestock program. The Mumma is given annually to an outstanding leader in memory of Harry E. Mumma, a 4-H leader from Tansboro.

Fancy Flock Flyers spin, weave their way to championship

LEBANON — Lebanon County kicked off their week-long Farm-City celebration last Friday evening with a Sheep to Shawl contest and farm equipment display at the Lebanon Plaza Mall, along Route 72.

The grand champion team in the Sheep to Shawl contest was a group of women who called themselves the Fancy Flock Flyers. Team members included Carol Buskirk, Harrisburg; Joanne Higgins, Harrisburg; Jimmie Hepford, Summerdale; and Diane Dilger, Lebanon.

They were the first team of three spinners and one weaver to complete their shawl in a time of 102 minutes.

The shawls, which had to be a minimum of 20-22 inches wide, 70 inches long, with at least 5 inches of fringe on each end, were judged by Dotty Lewis and Phyllis Robinson of Lancaster

The judges explained they were looking at the shawls' designs, along with the team members' spinning and weaving ability, their speed, and their team identification (costumes).

The championship team's shawl was auctioned off after the contest and sold to Rich Brandt Farm Sales for $170.

The reserve champion shawl was created under the skilled hands of the Ridley Creek Craft Guild from Chester and Delaware counties. Team members included Ann Bates, Suzanne Keenan, Debby Sax, and Louise Buls. Bidding stopped at $160 for the reserve champion shawl, going to Mrs. Carl Wenger, Myerstown

Each of the remaining three shawls sold for $150 each

The third place team was called Quiet Valley's Spinster Web, Monroe County. Team captain and weaver was Barbara J. Lord. Her spinners included Sue Oiler, Maryellen, Mross, and Sandra Terrill.

In fourth place were the Fiber Fanatics of Cumberland County. The four-member group consisted of Ginny Leber, captain; Sharon Worley; Jane Eggleston; and Ruth Clark.

And in fifth place were the Thistledown Spinners The Cumberland County team was made up by Florence Seidler, Ruth Singleterry, Margaret Loy, and Carolyne Winslow.

The fleeces for the contest were shorn from Corriedale crossbred sheep, provided by the Ben Bow family, Annville. Daughter Julie Bow performed the shearing.

The event was sponsored by the Lebanon Valley Chamber of Commerce and the Lebanon Plaza Mall Association. Assisting in the event was the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

Carl Buskirk of Lingelstown knots off the championship shawl. The shawl was created in one hour and forty-two minutes.

Five Commodity Queen were on hand for the opening night of Lebanon's Farm-City Week celebration at the Lebanon Plaza Mall. Posing for a quick picture are Lebanon County Dairy Princess Bev Burkholder; Adams County Apple Queen Tami Lovaugh; and Pa. Lamb and Wool Queen Lauren Putnak. Also part of the festivities were Pa. Red Cherry Queen Lauri Roth and Pa. Honey Queen Becky Fisher.

Cumberland County's Fiber Fanatics concentrate on knotting-off their shawl. Their finishing time was 104 minutes — two minutes off the champion team's time.

With feet treddling and fingers guiding, the spinners from Monroe County's Quiet Valley Spinster Web conjure up images of days-gone-by when spinning fleeces into wool yarn was not only an art but a necessity.

Modeling the five completed shawls are weavers, from left, Caroline Winslow, Thistledown Spinners, fifth place, Ruth Clark, Fiber Fanatics fourth place, Barbara Lord, Quiet Valley s Spinster Web, third place, Deborah Sax, Ridley Creek Craft Guild second place, and Carol Buskirk, Fancy Flock Flyers, first place

BALANCE SHEET

Before we look ahead to next year, let's look back at last year to see the balance sheet for the dairy price support program.

You should already know that it was a record high year of dollar volume purchase by CCC partly because you're in a record high year of milk production.

After the sales were subtracted from the purchases the net cost of the program was $1.3 billion. That was over five times as much as the $250 million cost in 1979.

For that $1.3 billion the CCC removed the equivalent of 8.2 billion pounds of milk or about 6.5 per cent all you sent to market. That's the largest volume since 1962 and the flood keeps coming.

These figures are for the marketing year from October to September. But if we look at the first nine months of 1980 the CCC has already purchased the equivalent of 7.3 billion pounds of milk which is 3.5 times as much as all of calendar 1979.

Don't blame it all on dairy products because they were down about 208 million pounds of milk equivalent under last year for the first eight months of 1980.

Proposals like this have been made by National Milk Producers Federation, American Farm Bureau and USDA each with a different formula.

As it turns out it wouldn't have made any difference which one was used this year. Under the present situation, they all would be down to 75 per cent of parity. That's just about where we are right now.

Delaware Co. 4-H'ers compete

MEDIA — Years of competition in local and district 4-H shows paid off for Valli Lanzetti, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lanzetti of Folcroft. She won seventh place in the Pony Barrell Racing class at the State 4-H Horse Show held recently in Harrisburg. Lynn Grace of Glenolden, also represented Delaware County 4-H Horse and Pony Club at this event.

Some 500 contestants from across the state competed as a result of winning county and district eliminations.

Keith and Kris Bryan, whose parents are Mr. & Mrs. C.R. Bryan, Jr. of Middletown Twp., recently showed their 4-H market hogs in the Keystone Livestock Exposition at Harrisburg. Their animals, bred by Glen Mills School, placed 8th, 9th and 10th in stiff competition among Junior Exhibitors from several states. The competition was divided into four weight classes and followed by carcass judging after the hogs were slaughtered at A.&B. Packing Plant in Allentown. The Bryans received 4th, 5th, 6th, and 8th place premiums for these classes. Keith also placed in the top ten percent in the Junior Livestock and Meats Judging Contest at the same event.

Other recent 4-H awards went to the Delaware County 4-H Dairy Goat Club as top winners in the National 4-H Week Exhibit, according to Nadine Albany, 4-H Assistant. This award was announced at the 4-H Members Achievement Banquet in Media. Members from throughout Delaware County were recognized for 1980 accomplishments. The event was planned and run by the 4-H Members Council. M.C.'s were Lori Simasek of Thornburg and Kim Bryan of Middletown.

One day bear season to run Monday

TOWANDA — Hunters will have a one-day opportunity to take a black bear in 29 Pennsylvania counties on Monday, November 24.

Counties in which bear hunting will be permitted are Bradford, Cameron, Carbon, Centre, Clarion, Clearfield, Clinton, Columbia, Elk, Forest, Huntingdon, Jefferson, Lackawanna, Luzerne, Lycoming, Mckean, Mifflin, Monroe, Pike, Poter, Snyder, Sullivan, Susquehanna, Tioga, Union, Venango, Warren, Wayne and Wyoming.

During last year's one-day bear season, hunters took 736 bruins. The figure is an all-time record for a single day, and is the second largest total harvest on record for any year.

This year the Game Commission is unable to predict how many hunters will be afield or how many bears will be taken during the one-day season. Many variables, such as weather, economic conditions, hunting pressure, concentrations of hunters and bears, denning activity, food availability, etc. are involved.

The Pennsylvania bear population is at a high level, and district game protectors in 17 of the 29 counties open to bear hunting this year predict an "excellent" season. The remaining counties open for bear hunting have been rated as "good."

Nuisance and damage complaints are running quite high throughout the primary bear range, and this year's season hopefully will result in cropping of surplus bruins. Since there is no special bear hunting license in Pennsylvania, the number of bear hunters, where they hunt and numbers of bears harvested cannot be controlled.

Although game managers feel that the bear population could easily withstand a harvest of 1000 animals this year, there is always the possibility of an overharvest which could possibly produce another closed bear season in 1981.

This year for the first time all bear hunters will be required to wear at least 100 square inches of fluorescent orange material on the head, or on the chest and back combined. A cap contains 100 square inches of material, but all bear hunters are urged to wear both a cap and vest (or coat) of fluorescent orange material.

Game Commission safety officials point out that there was not one single hunting accident during the 1979 bear season, and it is hoped that the fine record will continue this year.

Hunters are required to maintain a roster when five or more persons hunt together as a group or in any manner cooperate with others. Hunting together or cooperating with others is construed to mean actual participation, such as in driving. Simple staying together at a camp does not indicate participation or cooperation.

A hunter may legally take only one bear per year in Pennsylvania, and hunting parties of two or more persons are restricted to one bear per party this year.

Shooting a bear in a den is unlawful.

Each person who kills a bear must, within one hour, and before transporting or moving the carcass in any manner from where it was killed, prepare and attach to the bruin a home-made tag on which is recorded the person's name, address, hunting license number, and the time, date and county where killed.

Before any bear lawfully taken may be possessed for more than 24 hours, it must be tagged by a Game Commission officer at an established bear check station The tag shall remain permanently attached to the head, or until the head has been tanned or mounted.

Dairy feeding session to run Tuesday

FLEMINGTON, N.J. — The dairymen and other livestock growers are the ones that are hardest hit by the grain shortage. They are short on home-grown forages and grains, and will face high prices as they purchase needed feeds.

A dairyman with 100 cows has to provide them with something like two tons of corn or hay silage, 1200 pound sof hay, and over a ton of grain concentrate every day If he has to purchase substantial amounts of this, he faces astronomical feed bills this winter.

To help him cope with the situation he faces this season we will be holding a dairy feeding meeting, "Feeding Dairy Cattle ..after drought '80," on Tuesday, November 25, beginning at 8 p.m. in Hunterdon's Extension Center, Flemington, N.J Frank Wright, extension dairy specialist, will be the speaker.

Dairymen will have the opportunity to hear about some of the possible alternatives and be able to ask questions of the expert.

Survey reveals public concern for USDA programs

HARRISBURG — Individuals across the United States voiced a general support of existing, voluntary USDA programs, reports a spokesman for the Soil Conservation Service, a branch of the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Through the Resources Conservation Act, more than 118,000 persons provided over one and one-half million comments on USDA programs. It gave the public an opportunity to voice their opinions on the future programs of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, said the spokesman.

According to the responses, Americans highly value the Nation's soil, water, and related resources. Respondents voiced a strong concern about the capacity of the Nation's resources to meet future needs.

Strong support was expressed for traditional USDA objectives relating to conservation and the preservation of agricultural land. The concept of reducing soil erosion was supported as the cornerstone of USDA conservation programs.

Most favored conservation practices were conservation tillage, drainage, erosion control measures, and flood control. Least support was voiced for the wetland retention policies.

Alternative strategies for addressing the conservation problems of the Nation were included in the evaluation. Most responses favored either redirecting present conservation programs or a program of conservation performance bonuses. Under the conservation bonus strategy, landowners would receive financial incentives for providing proper natural resources management.

The least support was found for regulatory programs and for a program of cross compliance. Cross compliance would mean that farmers would have to participate in a full conservation program to receive other USDA programs such as crop subsidies and low interest loans.

The report revealed the public generally believed that the existing programs of USDA are effective although agencies could do an even better job with more funding. The public also said agencies could provide more technical assistance if the programs were more efficient.

Strong support was voiced for a positive export policy and a need for a good farm energy conservation program. Respondents endorsed the traditional American concept of small family farms and supported the preservation of farmland for agricultural use.

Eduction and research were expressed as the proper role for government in natual resource conservation. Strong objections were made to government regulation.

Of the 118,000 responses received, nearly 75 percent came from individuals.

Greatest response was from the South. The more densely populated Northeast had the smallest portion of responses. Approximately 25 percent of the responses came from farmers and ranchers with an equal share coming from employes of federal, state, and local governments.

Additional information on the public responses to RCA can be obtained in a publication from any local office of USDA, Soil Conservation Service.

CALF STARTENA® Promotes Rumen Development... Adds Up To 15% More Growth In The First 60 Days, Compared To A Conventional Calf Starter Ration.

Nothing gets calves growing faster than Calf Startena. Why? As a result of new information in rumen research, Purina found a way to make the protein and energy in dry feed more available. So calves make a more efficient use of Calf Startena...turning more of it into true body development.

The result is an increase in feed efficiency of up to 12%. And up to 15% faster growth rate. That's compared to a conventional calf starter.
